The First Christian Church

Concluding Broadcast Talk of Season Given By Rev. John K. Lipman, S.J., on Sunday

NOT so many years ago a young man was making application for a position as teacher in a public school of a rather bigoted American neighbourhood. Among the various things asked him was the nature of his religious affiliations, and being forewarned about the local circumstances in respect to this question, he wrote in answer to the query — "The First Christian Church." This seemed satisfactorily orthodox to the non-Catholic School Board, and he was given the position. Greatly surprised, then, the next Sunday were the members of the Board when it was brought to their attention that the new teacher had attended services in the Roman Catholic Church. They lost no time in summoning him before a meeting of the Board, and announced that he was discharged because of deception in replying to the questionnaire.

The young man brought the case to court where he defied anyone to disprove that the Roman Catholic Church was the First Christian Church. And since the judge was confronted with overwhelming historical evidence, he had no other course than to decide the case in favour of the teacher and affirm that the charge in question was not sufficient grounds for dismissal, because the answer given was the truth.

Founded by Christ

Indeed, anyone familiar with history should have no difficulty in identifying the Catholic Church with the Church founded by Christ. The preceding talks have shown that His Church is an organism, the Mystical Body of which He is the Invisible Head, and that in accordance with the wish of that Head, this Body is One, Holy and Catholic. There remains for discussion the fourth characteristic of that Body, perhaps the most important of all,—the Apostolicity of Christ's Church. When we use the term apostolicity, we mean to indicate that the Church which claims to be the one founded directly by Christ,—the First Christian Church,—should be able to prove conclusively that she, and she alone, is the Church which Christ established under the supremacy of St. Peter; in other words, prove that she is apostolic in origin, in doctrine and in ministry.

A mere cursory reading of the New Testament reveals the salient fact that the Church which Christ established was decidedly apostolic. He Himself chose the twelve Apostles, made St. Peter their head, and commissioned them to transmit infallibly all His divine revelation to all nations till the end of the world. "As the Father hath sent Me, I also send you," He told them. (John XXI/21) "All power is given to Me in heaven and in earth. Going therefore, teach ye all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and behold, I am with you all days, even to the consummation of the world." (Matt. XXVIII/18-20).

Under One Head

This union of the early Church under one head, Peter, causes great difficulty to many outside the Church of Christ. And yet it is one of the facts that is most clearly indicated in the writings of the New Testament, as well as in the traditions and writings of the early Church. No one can deny the fact that Christ continually gave evidence of having something special in mind with regard to Peter. At their very first meeting, as St. John records, Christ changed Peter's name from Simon to Cephas,—or Kephas, or Kepha, or, as the Catholic Encyclopedia transliterates it from the Syrian, Kipha,—which is interpreted rock. Later on, as St. Matthew records in that famous sixteenth chapter, when Peter made his public acknowledgment of Christ's divinity, Our Lord, speaking personally to him, indicated that He would make him the head of the Church which He would found. "I say to thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church, and the gates of hell will not prevail against it. And I will give to thee the keys of the Kingdom of Heaven, and whatsoever thou shalt bind upon earth shall be bound also in heaven, and whatsoever thou shalt loose upon earth shall be loosed also in heaven."

Peter was the Rock

There have been many controversies over the exact meaning of this passage, but actually the far greater part of them originated during and after the Reformation, when those who had broken away from the Catholic Church were looking for a justification of their position of refusing to acknowledge the supremacy of the Pope. In the text, the rock refers to St. Peter, as even many fair-minded Protestant commentators now admit. Thompson of Glasgow says in his Monatesseron: "Peter was the rock upon which Christ said His Church would be built. To this, the connection and the scope of the passage agree. There seems to be something forced in every other construction....Protestants have betrayed unnecessary fears, and have, therefore, used all the hardihood of lawless criticism in their attempts to reason away the Catholic interpretation."

One of the main objections to this Catholic interpretation is the fact that St. Matthew uses in Greek the two form 'petros' and 'petra.' As a matter of grammar, however, there was nothing else he could do. Obviously, since Christ was referring to a man, Matthew, when putting the Aramaic word into Greek, had to use the masculine form. We could hardly expect him to use the feminine form when referring to Peter; else some captious critic would have been sure to argue that the Catholic Church was not founded on Peter, but on Peter's wife, or even his mother-in-law!

The early Fathers often mention Peter as the Rock upon which the Church was built, but none of them ever denied that Christ was the Divine Founder of the Church and the primary rock upon which it was erected. Nor do any of the other Patristic interpretations of this text deny that Peter is the rock foundation. They rather make the true meaning all the more clear, for Peter was Christ's vicar on earth. His supremacy is evident from the New Testament, and the jurisdiction of the Roman See which he established was acknowledged by all the early Christian communities.

Apostolic Origin

This is the meaning of apostolic origin, and it is to this beginning that the one, true Church of Christ should be able to point with justifiable pride. The pages of history give undeniable evidence, irrefutable proof that the Roman Catholic Church is the only one which merits this title of apostolic, that she alone is able to identify herself with the First Christian Church. For the names of the founders of all the others, with the dates of their birth, are on record, and anyone may judge whether or not they are apostolic. Secular papers on the other hand,—press and radio reports the world over testified recently that Pope Pius XII is the two hundred and sixty-second successor of St. Peter as Bishop of Rome and Head of the Catholic Church. It was this indisputable and unequalled lineage that was the pride of the early Church and that distinguished it from the heretical and schismatical sects that broke away from the parent stock. To this direct descent from the Apostles the early Fathers appealed as the most convincing argument to prove the True Church of Christ, and this argument is no less convincing today than it was seventeen or eighteen hundred years ago.

What it Means to us

If we would appreciate what that First Christian Church, that Mystical Person is and what it means to us, listen to the words of the Rt. Reverend Fulton Sheen, who gives us the Church's soliloquy: "I live with Christ....I saw Him at Caesarea-Philippi, when after changing Simon's name to Rock. He told him that he was the rock upon which the Church would be built, and that it would last unto the consummation of the world....I saw Christ hanging on a cross and I saw Him rise from His tomb....I was on Olivet when He ascended unto heaven and promised to send His Spirit to the apostles and make them the foundation of His new Mystical Body on earth....I witnessed the martyrdom of Peter and Paul in Rome....I was living when Boniface was sent to Germany, when Augustine went to England, Cyril and Methodius to the Poles and Patrick to Ireland....In the thirteenth century I saw the great stones cry out in tribute to me and burst into Gothic Cathedrals....In the sixteenth century I saw my children, softened by the spirit of the world, leave the Father's House and reform the faith, instead of reforming discipline which would have brought them back into my embrace.

In the last century and at the beginning of this, I heard the world say it could not accept me because I was behind the times. I am not behind the times; I am only behind the scenes....I have lived with Cæsars and kings, tyrants and dictators, parliaments and presidents, monarchies and republics....I have welcomed every advance of science....It is true that I have not changed my doctrine, but that is because the 'doctrine is not mine but His who sent me'....In the course of my long life I have seen so many modern ideas become unmodern, that I know I shall live to chant a requiem over the modern ideas of this day....I am the abiding Personage of the centuries....I am never out of date, because the dateless; never out of time, because the timeless. I have four great marks: I am One, because I have the same soul I had in the beginning; I am Holy, because that soul is the spirit of Holiness; I am Catholic, because that spirit pervades every living cell of my Body; I am Apostolic, because my origin is identical with Nazareth, Galilee and Jerusalem. I shall grow weak when my members become rich and cease to pray, but I shall never die! I shall be persecuted, as I am now in various countries. I shall be crucified as I was on Calvary, but I shall rise again, and finally when time shall be no more, and I shall have grown to my full stature, then shall I be taken into Heaven as the Bride of Christ, where the celestial nuptials shall be celebrated, and God shall be in all because His Spirit is Love, and Love is Heaven."

Lesson Sermon

First Church of Christ, Scientist.

God the preserver of man.—Is the subject of the Lesson Sermon read in all Churches of Christ Scientist, Throughout the world on Sunday, June 11. Golden Text:—Psalms 30:6. "Thy righteousness is like the great mountains; thy judgments are a great deep: O Lord, thou preservest man and beast." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson Sermon is the following from The Bible:— "Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord: And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might. And the Lord commanded us to do all these statutes, to fear the Lord our God, for our good always, that he might preserve us alive, as it is at this day." (Deuteronomy 6:4, 5, 24).

The Lesson Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:— "Having no other gods, turning to no other but the one perfect Mind to guide him, man is the likeness of God, pure and eternal, having that Mind which was also in Christ."

Seventy Years Ago

FROM THE "NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS" OF JUNE 12, 1869

Is Shanghai an idle or a busy place. Every merchant in the Settlement will immediately say "what an absurd question! Clearly it is one of the busiest places in the world." Last year the import of grey shirtings amounted to over six millions sterling, and the export of silk for the first six months of the year was over 7,000 bales; and what was lost on tea cannot be mentioned with propriety. Granted all this, but yet the question remains, and we are assured that considerations come in which seem to favour the view that the work here is not excessive. Unquestionably at particular times of the year certain men are hard pushed. The work which a shipping clerk goes through in the months of June and July is exhausting and harassing beyond expression.

WOMAN'S PAGE

A London Letter

By Olive Dun

London, May 15.

When the Queen, on board the Empress of Australia, was asked to go on deck and see her thirtieth iceberg, she replied that she was "very comfortable in the warm lounge and that one iceberg is much like another." Which only shows what a sensible woman Her Majesty is. One may well sympathize with the King and Queen. I once took eight days to cross the Atlantic; they will have had 11; and of all sea journeys the Atlantic is the most boring, the immense luxury of its liners rather adding to than mitigating the tedium. It is like living continually in the palm garden of a Park Lane hotel.

Meanwhile the Princesses have been having a tremendous burst of limelight, particularly on a visit to the Zoo, where the giant panda did all her tricks for their amusement, standing on her head and lying on her back to drink a bottle of milk; and Princess Elizabeth reproved her sister for giving the elephants too many buns, and immediately afterwards, to Princess Margaret's intense joy, an elephant snatched away the entire bag of buns from her senior.

But even more exciting was the ride in the underground, from St. James's Park to Tottenham Court Road and back, with a change at Charing Cross, where they got lost like many others in the wilderness of escalators and subways. They went like the ordinary lieges with their governess and Lady Helen Graham, with no notice given to anyone, and travelling cheek by jowl with charwomen and messenager boys, and they were actually not spotted until nearly at Tottenham Court Road.

It is said that Queen Mary suggested the tour, holding that the Princesses should see life not only from a palace window, but also from the standpoint of the crowd. The next adventure should be to give them their lunch in a City A.B.C. between one and two o'clock.

Two Big Conferences

Two great events for the women of Great Britain are due to take place next month. The first, which actually begins on May 30, is the triennial conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World, and women are coming to it from parts of the Empire and most countries, even including Germany. From America alone 300 women are due.

This conference lasts till June 10, immediately after which comes the huge annual Conference of Women's Institutes in London. Most of the visitors from overseas will join in that, and then they are invited to visit Women's Institutes in many of the most beautiful spots in Great Britain.

What the agenda of these conferences is to be I do not yet know. But the imagination naturally dwells on what might be done for the peace and better fellowship of the nations if the women of all countries agreed to use their power in common. Future historians will probably dwell upon the amazing advancement in the position of women all over the world, as one of the most striking phenomena of the early 20th century. Yet it must be confessed that hitherto women have made very little use of their newly-acquired rights in a communal or national sense. Are we still bound by the curse of individualism laid on us by Mother Eve when she asserted self against the universe by eating the apple?

* * *

Brutality for Brutes

One group of women, however, is evidently determined to do something communally. At the recent meeting of the Women's Central Advisory Committees of all the Conservative and Unionist Associations—that is, the most important political organization for women, over 3,000 of them being present—an overwhelming vote was given against the abolition of corporal punishment proposed in Sir Samuel Hoare's judicial reform Bill. The few who defended it were scarcely allowed a hearing. They, of course, included Lady Astor (who, like a certain once famous dramatist, has "never posed as being ordinary").

When she sarcastically urged her audience to read the committee's report, there were shouts of "We have read it," and her reply was drowned in cries of disapproval. The unfortunate Captain Peake, Under-Secretary for Home Affairs, who was present to defend his chief, rashly said that "the needless infliction of pain on any human being is a thing to be avoided"; which evoked shouts of "What about the victim?"

And there's the rub. The controversy has since been carried on fiercely in the correspondence columns of the "Daily Telegraph," and both here and in the conference the evidence is that women are overwhelmingly in favour of retaining the use of the "cat." As one woman expresses it with the usual common sense of her sex, "We don't pretend that the cat reforms a criminal; we do say that the fear of it stops him from making a beast of himself." Crimes of violence against women and children have undoubtedly increased in recent years, and it is difficult not to associate this with the corresponding lenience shown in the whole treatment of crime. So much sentimentality is worked up for every criminal, that it would really seem as if his victim were the one to blame for exposing his assailant to temptation.

By an odd coincidence, the day after the women's conference, it was reported that a convict (I think in Chelmsford Gaol, but have mislaid the reference) was flogged for attacking a warder. It is some comfort to think that, for the protection of this delicate and helpless class at least, the "cat" is still to be used.

* * *

..Chip of the Old Block

Another subject (as un-novel I fear as corporal punishment) is very amusingly displayed in a newly-published book called "One Pair of Hands," by Miss Monica Dickens, great-granddaughter of the novelist. She was presented at Court in 1935, got bored with society life, and became a "cook general" for two years, in order to study the servant problem from inside. Once when she was working in a large West Country house, she heard that "an old flame" of two years before was coming to attend the servants' ball. The only thing was to feign illness. But on hearing that his car had broken down, she decided to recover. So did the motor car. Robin (the flame) turned up in the middle of the ball, saw her, and, as she fled into the nether regions, rushed after her. They crashed together into a coal cellar under the butler's scandalized eyes. There was nothing for Miss Dickens but to move on elsewhere.

Miss Dickens explored a number of houses, including one whose owner stayed in bed most of the day "with his finger on the bell push" and expected her to work from 8.30 a.m. to 11.30 p.m. She says that servants frequently have to sleep on uncomfortable beds, in cold rooms, with inadequate washing arrangements. Often she did not get her lunch till 2.30, on warmed-up scraps from the dining room, and then might be called off to do some job. "It was not tyranny," she says, "but pure thoughtlessness."

Miss Dickens thinks that the servant problem will never be solved until the surroundings of their life "below stairs" are modernized and made brighter. She also suggests the establishment of hostels in which maids might be trained and might live, going out to their work daily instead of living in the house of service. This strikes one as throughly sensible, and we shall probably come to it. A big part of the problem is that the industry has never been properly organized.

Should Mothers Play Games?

Not, perhaps, before it was time, the National Fitness Council has decided to send out a questionnaire to 200 women-athletes, to settle the question "Are athletics injurious to health?" Sixteen questions are listed, including habits of smoking, diet, training, nerves, and others, designed to show the effect of athletics, if any, on future motherhood. Although the questions are hardly yet in the post numerous leading tennis players, hockey players, cricketers, golfers and swimmers have of course, already been interviewed. Some are already as fruitful vines upon some masculine wall. The others are quite certain that they will be equally capable of the same role when fate sees fit. But the results of the questionnaire will be awaited with interest. To the lay mind it would seem to be a matter of the old Greek wisdom, "Nothing in excess." The girls whose names are for ever in the papers hunting championships may not injure their health, but they do acquire a very scorched, wrinkled and weather-beaten appearance.

The Delectable Isle

Since I last wrote I have been playing truant for a week at Ventnor and more than ever I feel that, in spring and autumn at least, no place can vie with the Isle of Wight for tranquil old-world charm. Cowes is rather an exception. It seems monstrously incongruous with the Island's character that Cowes should have become an important centre for the building of men-of-war and battleplanes. Yet so it is, the banks of the Medina River continually echoing to the clang of hammers and the aero engine's roar. Shanklin and Sandown, too, are merely great holiday camps, hardly yet awakening from their winter sleep. At Sandown and short trunks, played clumsily with a particoloured football, like the latest Southern Railway advertisement. Nearby two stout middle-aged women, as heavily dressed as the others were scantily, lay flat on their backs in the blazing sunlight, their faces a deep purple. How they can do it I cannot imagine. Having once been badly sunburnt I know how very painful it is. I saw quite a number of girls who ought to have been pretty, but that their faces were disfigured with peeling and a watery rash. All sun-bathing. How can it be good for them?

Guatemala-London Via New York

Princess Obolensky created these house coats which are now being shown in London. She fell a slave to the crashing colours worn by the shy and secretive people of Guatemala. She copied the gowns worn by the native village belles in colours the like of which you've never seen—strangely blended reds, blues, white on yellow, white and green, flower pot brick on blue, in simple appealing motifs.

A "Real" Hat Again

In New York a new hat mode is getting under way. It is called the the advance guard of "Fall" fashions and has a big comfortable crown that fits. It is an effort to make a change from the little "sillies"—though no one seems quite sure if it is in answer to a demand or simply for a change.

we toiled along three-quarters of a mile of esplanade before we found a tea-shop open. It advertised "Home-made cakes" as a speciality. But I have long discovered that the professional brand is a safer bid.

Elsewhere the Island has suffered but little, and at Ventnor in particular one is back in the unruffled calm of the great Exhibition of 1851—with, however, all modern conveniences. Indeed our hotel was one of the most comfortable and best run I have ever been in, possibly because it has the perfect head waiter, who has been there for 20 years and holds the management (and guests) in the hollow of his kindly and capable hands. The only people with whom he could not cope were three charming old ladies, the youngest of whom, certainly well over 60, drove their car up and down break-neck hills at a pace which made the islanders' blood run cold. But you cannot kill these old ladies, who are letting loose nowadays with all the greater exuberance for the restrictions of their youth.

We bought season tickets on the railway (eight shillings for seven days, go where, when and as often as you please) because Thomas, the Cairn puppy, despises the whole breed of motor cars, which make him sick. But anyway the motor buses rather bang you about and the trains will get you anywhere you want most comfortably, except between Blackgang and Alum Bay, where indeed Shanks's pony is the only effective means of progression. There is one little train in particular, between West Ventnor and Merstone, consisting of one coach and tiny engine which I wanted to bring home to play with in the garden. When the engine driver sees any passengers coming along the road he kindly waits for them. But no one hurries on the Island.

Of course the country was a mass of varied colour, every sort of spring flower, against a setting of young green, copper beeches and laburnums. It is the interior of the Island with its well-cultivated fields and old stone farmsteads which fascinates one even more than the coast. We were lucky in our weather, basking the whole week in glorious sunshine, which surrounded the Island with waves of molten gold.

MALARIA

And Its Prevention.

Though considerable progress has been made in the fight against malaria by the authorities in affected districts in many parts of the world, it is wise for each individual to take his own precautionary measures against an attack of malaria. How can this best be done?

The malaria germ thrives in weak, impure blood, so the thing to do is to ensure for yourself an abundant supply of rich, pure blood with the aid of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the world-renowned blood and nerve tonic which rapidly creates red corpuscles and increases the haemoglobin, thereby supplying the elements, oxygen and iron, vital to good strong blood.

Also after an attack of malaria, or other debilitating fever, which generally leaves the victim in an anaemic condition, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are equally helpful, as they build up the vitiated bloodstream, enabling it to clear itself of disease germs and thus quickly restoring health and strength.

For other ailments resulting from blood poverty, such as digestive disorders, nerve weakness, insomnia, headaches, backaches, rheumatism and its kindred ailments, loss of weight, premature ageing, and the health irregularities peculiar to women Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are equally beneficial. Sold by chemists everywhere.

"The Good Old Times"

Few would Willingly Return to Them, Especially in Matters of Health

The progressive development of human life advances with ever increasing strides. The great technical and chemical discoveries have led to an unforetold perfection of life, to a growth of commerce, and to the bridging of areas which formerly divided up the earth. There are people who doubt the necessity for such development and who, amid all the unrest in the world, look back on the "good old times," when everything went its way more comfortably and safely.

Time, however, flows over these people. Even today, who would like to return to old conditions, to mediæval points of view and methods? Would you travel on foot to the nearest village if a motor vehicle were available? Would you rather cultivate your field by the work of your hands, instead of making use of the more rapid and certain plough? And it is certain that you would not shoot with a bow and arrow, if you could have a gun with powder and shot; nor would you prefer to travel in an ox-cart or horse-carriage to using an express train or aeroplane.

When attacked by illness, you naturally turn to remedies which Science has recognized to be the most certain and efficacious. You would not try to drive out the devil with water, ashes or earth. Among primitive peoples there are "faith-healers" who make believe by means of all sorts of hocus-pocus that they can master a disease. However, it is certain that the parasites of malaria cannot be affected by this means, nor can the febrile attacks be stopped.

A few years ago modern research produced a new weapon in the fight against disease in the form of "Atebrin," which has proved far superior to all previous methods of treatment. A course of treatment lasting for only five days results in cures almost free from relapse and a certain protection against infection is attainable by taking the remedy twice weekly.

In the Fourth Report of the Malaria Commission of the League of Nations, which was published early this year, the superiority of "Atebrin" over all hitherto used methods of treatment was once more confirmed by the results of exhaustive comparative investigations.

A cot-cover of floral sateen may be given "body" by enclosing worn towels between the two thicknesses of sateen.

Remarkable Tie in Cricket

Nomads, Wanderers Each Score Exactly 227 Runs In Most Exciting Match; Leach Scores Century

IN one of the finest and most interesting matches seen on the Shanghai Cricket Club ground for many a long day, the Nomads and Wanderers both scored 227 runs in their respective innings yesterday afternoon and their league encounter therefore ended in a tie. As an example of the peculiar turns and twists that cricket can take, this game will be remembered for years, for first the Wanderers seemed in an impregnable position and then as the closing stages drew near, the boot appeared on the other foot and the Nomads were definitely in command.

Then a not too difficult chance was offered the Wanderers' wicketkeeper that would have brought the innings to a close but was not accepted and the Nomads still breathed. And as a fitting climax, the Nomads' captain, who has never batted better, was run out—rather unfortunately, perhaps—when the scores were tied at 227 and the match was brought to a dramatic conclusion.

Donald Leach, Shanghai's Interport leader for many seasons now, found his batting form once again, and with a brilliant innings that was full of sparkle, scored 137 before he had his wicket thrown down. Never has he given a finer display and never has he so mastered the bowling. He was on top of the attack from the moment he received his first ball, and though he should have been caught when 131, he never gave another semblance of a chance during his stay of just over 2¼ hours.

Jenkins Bowls Well

Second only to Leach was "Stoker" Jenkins who, after hitting up a sound 54 for the Wanderers, bowled unchanged throughout the Nomads' stay at the wicket, sending down 17.4 overs for the really splendid figures of eight wickets for 118. It was a back-breaking task trying to bowl Leach without a moment's respite.

The Wanderers opened but Dean was soon back in the pavilion for a blob. Simpson and Pullen then set about the attack, and in 50 minutes added no less than 79 for the second wicket before the latter was caught by Leach off Wood.

At this period of the game, the Nomads' attack did not appear particularly impressive, but there was little doubt that the batsmen were right on top of their form and were seeing the ball really well.

Jenkins stayed on till 194 were up, when he was caught behind the wicket for a splendid 54, which included four hits to the tapes. Pearson, during a short stay at the crease, lashed out to good effect and was undefeated with 22 to his credit when the innings was declared closed at 227 for seven wickets at the tea-interval.

Pote-Hunt and Leach began for the Nomads, but the former was retired without a run being scored. Dr. Morris and Wood made useful contributions, both exceeding the twenty mark.

Leach's Big Effort

P. J. Hart then joined his captain and Leach then realized the time had arrived for him to make his big effort. This he did in brilliant fashion, showing that the attack held no terrors for him. Hart scored only 18 during a forty-minutes' stay at the crease but in this period no less than 77 runs were added, most of them coming from Leach's magic touches.

Hart was finally well caught by Pullen after a most useful knock, the number of runs he scored not being a true indication of the value he proved to his side. Dunkley, obviously suffering from an injurerd hand and therefore unable to hold his bat properly, soon was sent back by Jenkins and when Graham, the last man, came in, 34 were still needed for victory with only fifteen minutes left for play.

Graham edged one or two balls dangerously near slips' heads but then settled down and with a huge six to square leg, brought the Nomads' score level with their opponents. From the very next ball, Jenkins appealed for l.b.w. but the ball went towards short mid-off and Graham, who was receiving, scampered up the pitch for what should have been the winning run. Leach, a little late in starting, was thrown out by the narrowest of margins and thus a most exciting game came to a fitting conclusion.

Shanghai Amateurs Trounce Luzon

Comedy of Errors Seen As Sailors are Guilty Of Glut of Mistakes

A comedy of errors marked the heavy defeat inflicted upon the U.S.S. Luzon, representing the Navy, by the Shanghai Amateurs in a City Baseball League game on the Race Course yesterday afternoon. The civilians took full advantage of the sailors' mistakes which were no fewer than 17, to win by 18-4.

George Adams travelled the whole distance and had an easy time in dealing with the sailors who, however, started off with a rush to garner three runs in the first frame out of a like number of bingles.

Adams forced out two batters before he was faced with an early deficit. Le France banged out a long fly into right field. Wager walked first. Sparks flied to left field to see Lawler make a big mistake of allowing the shot to take a bounce instead of pulling it down first-time. Le France galloped home at full speed to notch up the first tally. Daniels grounded short for both Wager and Sparks to beat the throw-in.

The Amateurs retaliated right away through poor fielding on the part of the sailors. Sparks was the first to commit an error when he muffed Huebner's grounder. The latter stole second. Schaberg walked and then both runners advanced on a wild pitch. Sparks was still in bad shape, booting Krause's roller which eventually scored the two men on bases.

Riley popped out a low fly over to right. He gained two more bases as the Navy pitcher again delivered a wild threw. Adams grounded to short but Wager, who was roving between second and third, allowed the ball to bounce off his glove, thereby giving Riley the chance to tie the score at 3-all.

The Amateurs then encountered no difficulty in forging ahead. Schaberg started off with a single in the third inning, sending out a roller past third base. He came home when Krause tripled to right field, the ball getting to the Parsee cricket grounds. This run broke the Navy team up, for Hall in right field and Cloud behind the plate each blundered to permit two more runs to be scored.

In the ninth inning, Kussin gained a three base hit. Lamneck pegged wild to let the runner get home and end the scoring at 18-4.

More Prolific Scoring In County Cricket

Gibbons Reaches Double Century; Eight 100s

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, June 10.

More prolific scoring were witnessed today in first-class cricket, which produced a double-century and eight centuries.

The double-centurion was Gibbons, the batting mainstay of Worcester, who carried his bat for a splendid 212. It was only three weeks ago that Gibbons made 111 and 100, both times not out, against Hampshire.

Other batsmen to distinguish themselves were Sutcliffe and Leyland, of Yorkshire.

Giving another of those exhibitions which have so endeared him to cricket lovers, Sutcliffe reached 175—his third three-figure score in three matches—while Leyland made 180 not out.

The highest aggregate of the day was amassed by Worcester, who knocked up 546 for six against Northants.

Details:

At Lord's—Yorkshire 430 for five (Sutcliffe 175, Leyland 180 not out) against Middlesex.

At Gloucester—Essex 150 Gloucester 260 for five.

At Birmingham—Hampshire 364 (Holt 115, Arnold 109). Warwick seven for no wicket.

At Derby—Derbyshire 309, West Indies 14 for one.

At Cambridge—Free Foresters 287 (Welch 104). Cambridge 57 for three.

At Manchester—Lancashire 369 for four (Oldfield 129 not out) against Notts.

At Dudley—Worcester 546 for six (Gibbons 212 not out, Palmer 132) against Northants.

At Leicester—Leicester 291 (Prentice 110). Kent 50 for two.

At Horsham—Sussex 265 (Gover five for 75). Surrey 141 for five.

At Newport—Somerset 208 for six against Glamorgan.—Reuter.

Headquarters Troop Rallies To Beat Second Battalion

Eventful Fourth Inning Sees Five Runs Scored as Troop Draws Level; Kelly Nearly Hits Homer

BUNCHING all their six bingles in three innings, the Headquarter Troops scored a well earned victory over the Second Battalion in the second game of the City Baseball League on the Race Course diamond yesterday afternoon by a score of seven runs to five. The losers, although they outhit their conquerors by eight to six, failed in the pinches.

The Second Battalion showed early promise as the team immediately went into action in the opening inning. Shortstop Rozier booted Winchester's ground shot to allow the opposing first batter to reach first base. Wells was stunned somehow by his teammate's carelessness and issued a free pass to Drew, the second batsman. Duncan grounded to short while Winchester ran third. Beeson lined out a high fly toward centre where Bitts made a pretty catch, but on the throw-in, Winchester scored the opening run.

Porter flew the mound flag for the Second Battalion and did a nice job for three innings. The fourth frame, however, became eventful. The early leaders again benefitted by the "Orphans'" mistake when Second Baseman Kelly made a wild throw to first on Depizol's shot. Fairchild dropped one toward centre, sending Depizol to the hot corner. Fairchild pilfered second. Moore drove a long fly toward right field where Shibley pulled the shot down without any mistake, but before his peg reached home, Depizol spurted across the plate for the second run. Sargent tagged Wells for a nice bingle toward left field and chased Fairchild home.

Headquarters Get Break

The Headquarters' break came right away when Duncan muffed an easy shot to permit Wells to get to the first base. The latter stole second and then galloped home on Sonnenberg's sizzling low drive between second base and shortstop. Burch followed suit with a raking ground shot across second base. His attempt sent Sonnenberg home.

Porter received more punishment when Kelly slugged a terrific blow high into the air toward the Shanghai Junior Golf Club premises. It looked like a sure home run but the ball hit one of the benches and bounced back into the field. This gave the slugger only a three-bagger but, nevertheless, pushed Rozier across the plate for the equalizer at 3-all.

Continuing the rally, the "Orphans" took the measure of Porter again in the fifth inning. With two away and Rozier on second base, Shibley lammed out a Texas-leaguer toward centre and drove the base-runner home. Chaney kept the barrage on with a triple over Centre Fielder Depizol's head. This shot enabled the score to read 5-3 in favour of the Headquarter Troops.

Porter Replaced By Bolding

Porter retired when the seventh inning got under way, Bolding filling the gap. He was good for one round only as he blew up in the following stanza. Burch was hit by a pitched ball and stole second while Rozier was being struck out. Kelly walked. Shibley reached first base on a fielder's choice to Shortstop Winchester, who made a poor peg to third in an effort to catch the runner. Then a passed ball enabled Rozier to canter home. Chaney was given a second walk by Bolding. Kelly scored when Hyman grounded out, closing the winners' accounts for the day.

Several pinch hitters were sent in by the Second Battalion in the ninth inning but their efforts proved futile as they only managed to cut the margin down to 7-5, registering two runs before the last man retired.

T. L. Wong Winner of 13-Mile Marathon

Only 38 Starters Finish Gruelling Road Course

Running a beautiful race T. L. Wong, China's star long distance runner, finished about 200 yards ahead of K. F. Liu, to win the 13-mile marathon race held yesterday morning in about 70 minutes. Wong found little opposition in the race and throughout the entire course was pressed only once, by Liu, who came in second. K. F. Wong, K. Y. Ling, and Clemens of the East Surrey's finished third fourth and fifth.

Of the 147 names entered, only 80 were present at the start, and only 38 were able to finish.

Taking a comfortable lead right from the start, T. L. Wong ran his own race. His many admirers, who kept close to him on bicycles were a great help in pulling him out. His lead was slightly lessened near Tunsin Road where K. F. Liu caught up to him.

K. F. Liu's presence did not seem to threaten Wong who left him yards behind by lengthening his stride. It was indeed a pleasure to see this runner go through the gruelsome 13-mile course. On entering the Shanghai Middle School he was given a big ovation by the school boys.

The following were the first ten runners to finish:—

1, T. L. Wong; 2, K. F. Liu; 3, K. F. Wong; 4, K. Y. Ling; 5, Clemens; 6, D. T. Kao; 7, K. S. Van; 8, S. T. Chow; 9, Hudson; 10, H. J. Zee.

Blues Increase Bowls Lead

Police Score Impressive Victory Over Clube Lusitano ; Reds Win Handily at Yangtzepoo

THE Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club Blues, leaders in the first division of the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Association League, consolidated their position yesterday when they won easily at home against the Hongkew Golf Club. It was a most successful day for the S.L.B.C. in the first division yesterday as the Reds took the measure of Yangtzepoo Bowling Club, in spite of playing away.

Two Clubs were engaged home and away yesterday, the Recs winning both of their games against the Shanghai Junior Golf Club, in each instance by four points to one.

Of especial interest was the impressive manner in which the Police Recreation Club defeated Clube Lusitano, when they won on all three rinks. Lusitano have been showing good form in the first division this season, and the Police did very well indeed to win all rinks.

Clube Lusitano's second division team atoned somewhat for the defeat of their seniors when they beat the Police by 4-1. In another game in the second division, the Barbarians continued to display good form, beating the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club.

Police Vanquish Lusitano

Playing on their own greens, the Police scored a well-deserved triumph over Clube Lusitano, winning on all three rinks. Though the margin was close on two rinks, the final score read 64 woods to 47 in favour of the Police, whose fine victory over Lusitano marks them out as a strong contender for the championship.

In an extremely close game, R. Conduit's rink defeated A.M. Gutierrez's, by a margin of a single shot, 22 to 21. Conduit played a fine game, rising to the occasion when his skill was most needed.

Another close encounter was that between E. R. Wilkinson's four and that of the Lusitano captain, H. A. Ozorio. Here the home team again won, by the margin of two woods, 19 to 17.

Victory was virtually assured the Police when H. Hogg's four outplayed that of J. P. de Campos, winning by 14 shots, 23 to 9.

Reds Win at Yangtszepoo

Maintaining the fine form they displayed in their opening game last week, when they defeated the Country Club, the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club Reds scored their second successive victory yesterday when they defeated Yangtszepoo Bowling Club by 60 shots to 49, on the Wayside greens.

The S.L.B.C. were victors on two rinks, scoring four points against the home team's one.

W. R. Chisholm, who played at skip instead of R. C. Aitkenhead, gave the home team their only victory when his four defeated that of E. R. Harmer by 21 shots to 16.

The Reds won easily on the two remaining rinks. T. S. Parry's four played well together to leave W. Bailey's behind, the final score being 25-15.

W. J. Monk's four won handily against A. Sharps by a margin of six shots, 19 to 13.

Blues Are Easy Winners

The Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club Blues found no difficulty in taking the measure of Hongkew Golf Club on their own greens. They won on all three rinks and the final score was 63 woods to 38 in their favour.

C. M. Sequeira, the mainstay of the Hongkew Golf Club team, nearly won when his rink fully extended that of W. A. Turnbull. The latter, however, won by 16 shots to 14, in a particularly interesting game.

On the other two rinks, the Blues had things very much their own way. A. H. Corveth's four played better towards the close, but C. Richard's four had already made certain of victory, and the final score was 20 shots to 15.

The most convincing victory was scored by H. Wallace's rink, who left C. A. Pereira's behind to win by a margin of 18 shots, 27 to 9.

Recs Extended By Junior G. C.

The Recs were well extended by the Shanghai Junior Golf Club on their own greens. Though they won four points against their opponents' one, the Recs won by only three shots, 56 to 53.

K. L. Swartzell's rink played good bowls to take the measure of G. V. Jensen's by seven shots, 20 to 13. This margin nearly served to bridge the difference between the scores of the other rinks.

F. O. Madar's four took the measure of R. Thomson's by six shots, 19 to 13.

The most interesting game of the three was that between G. B. Stormes' rink and C. Clements', the former winning by four shots, 24 to 20.

Recs Win at Junior G.C.

Playing away at the Shanghai Junior Golf Club, the Recs won handily by 76 shots to 39, being successful on two rinks. J. L. Wade, better known for his prowess at tennis, showed that he is as good a lawn bowler by leading his rink to an overwhelming victory over Beeman's, by the decisive score of 35 woods to nine.

G. Madar's rink also won convincingly against that of H. Cranfield, the score being 27 shots to 11.

The home team earned one point when T. Pollard's four defeated that of T. Veitch by 19 woods to 14. It was a close and interesting game throughout and was only decided in favour of the winners in the last few ends.

Schoolboys Win From Parsee Cricket XI

Low Scoring Game Ends In Favour of P.T.H.

In a very low scoring friendly cricket match yesterday afternoon, the Parsees playing on their own ground, succumbed to the Public & Thomas Hanbury School by four wickets. The Parsees scored only 51 after taking first knock and this total was passed by the youngsters with only six wickets down. The innings was played out, however, the scholars finally mustering 58, a mere seven runs ahead of their opponents.

The Parsees, playing nearly all their second-stringers, were never comfortable against the schoolboys' attack, only Tata and Mistry securing double figures, while no less than five batsmen failed to open their account, being sent back for "ducks."

Lovell again batted well when the schoolboys went in, knocking up 22 of 34 put on during his stay at the crease. He is now shaping into a useful batsman and should do well with more experience.

He made four nice fours during his stay, in the course of which the Parsees' total was passed. Blackwood was the only other bat to get pass the double figure mark and his stand with Lovell laid the foundations for victory.

Charna, who bowled throughout the innings, had the best analysis, securing five wickets at five runs apiece.

Triple Tie in National Golf Championship

Sam Snead Takes 13 Shots In Last Two Holes

Philadelphia, June 11.

The National Open golf championship ended in a three way tie here yesterday between Craig Wood, Denny Shute and Byron Nelson after Sammy Snead, who had led the field from the first round, cracked on the last two holes in an almost unbelievable collapse. The top cards were 284.

Marvin Ward turned in a final card of 285 yesterday for fourth place honours, the lowest an amateur has ever scored in the Open, even including Bobby Jones.

Fifth place went to Snead who took 13 shots on the last two holes when ten would have meant victory. His final card was 286.

Johnny Bulla, who has been up among the leaders throughout the play, ranked sixth, one stroke behind Snead.

The collapse of Snead was a great surprise to the large gallery because of the brilliant recovery he made the previous day in beating off the challenge of his rivals. Snead turned in a card of 139 that day to equal the 36-hole National Open record established in 1916 by Chick Evans.

Cards turned in by the leaders today were:—

Craig Wood	284
Denny Shute	284
Byron Nelson	284
Marvin Ward	285
Sammy Snead	286
Johnny Bulla	287

New Boxing Talent Wanted in U.S.

Mike Jacobs' Matchmaker Circulates Nation-Wide Call for Able Fighters

By Jack Cuddy
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 10.

Johnny Attell, new matchmaker for the 20th Century Club and Madison Square Garden, sent out a nation-wide call today for new boxing talent.

"Promoter Mike Jacobs will stage fights at the Garden practically every week during the next couple of years," Attell explained. "He has given me the job as matchmaker largely because of my reputation for developing new talent. And I'm starting right now to get those new faces."

Accordingly stogie-smoking Johnny requested sports writers to notify boxing managers in all sections to communicate with him immediately. He wishes the managers to write him about their most promising youngsters, giving their recent records and their availability for New York bouts.

"We'll have open house at the Garden as long as I'm matchmaker," Attell continued. "The doors will be wide open for out-of-town boys who can fight. I'll give them every opportunity to show their wares in the world's largest fight emporium. I'll start them off in preliminaries on big-name cards. And if they've got the stuff, it won't be long before they'll be big-namers themselves and fighting main events."

In addition to sending out his call through the presso Attell today directed telegrams to a flock of managers and fighters. Among those whom he wired were Billy Manguardt, Chicago Lightweight; Steve Mamakos, welterweight of Washington, D.C.; Pat Foley, lightweight of Worcester, Mass; Bob Montgomery and Jimmy Tigh, Philadelphia lightweights; Georgie Crough and Nick Peters, lightweights and Al Romero, middleweight, of the Pacific coast; and Ben Brown, Atlanta middleweight.

Attell, who succeeds Tom Mcardle as 20th Century matchmaker, said, "Naturally I will try to develop New York boys into box office favourites too. Wherever possible, I would like to match a New York boy with an outsider in our preliminaries. In that way he would be developing new talent from two angles."

Middle-sized Johnny, who has been managing and match making in New York for 23 years, said he was particularly interested in finding young heavyweights. There's a greater scarcity of talent in the heavy division than in any other," he declared. But there must be big boys somewhere in our land who can fight. If the managers will get in touch with me, I'll give their boys a real chance."—United Press.

Greatest Find of Season Wins Sixth Straight

New York, June 11.

Bill Donald, greatest rookie find in the major leagues this season, rested at the top of the pitchers rankings in the American League last night as the world champion New York Yankees continued to hold a monopoly on top rank mound stars.

Donald with six victories and no defeats this season topped all performers in both leagues, although his percentage was tied by Irving "Bump" Hadley of the Yankees and Bill McGee, of the St. Louis Nationals who have each won five and dropped none.

Charlie "Red" Ruffing of the Yankees held down third place in the American League ratings to give the Yankees their clean sweep to the top three berths. Ruffing has won eight and dropped only one for an average of .889.

Tommy Bridges of Detroit ranked fourth with seven victories and one defeat.

McGee Leads National League

With McGee topping the National League, Paul Derringer took second place honours with a .889 from eight victories and one defeat. IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

RESPONSIBILITY FIXED

The seriousness of the present anti-British campaign to which reference has already been made, is emphasized by the strongly-worded Note which Sir Herbert Phillips, H. M. Consul-General delivered to the Japanese Consul-General on Saturday. But grave as is the local situation it must be remembered that this campaign is not a purely local affair, but is being persistently prosecuted in other parts of China which are at present under Japanese control. The Note in question reveals the existence of armed bands on the Pootung side engaged in intimidating workers desirous of returning to work after settlement of their strike, and that two British members of the staff have been fired upon by these bands when they appeared outside the works endeavouring to encourage those who wanted to return to do so. Suppression of these armed gangs, the protection of Britons in Pootung, and the suppression of agitators is demanded together with the stoppage of anti-British parades, and the affixing of anti-British posters. Attention is also drawn to the activities of the "Sin Shun Pao," and after pointing out the control which is being exercised over British-owned Chinese language papers the note asks for reciprocity with regard to this Japanese-owned journal, which is undoubtedly guilty of what amounts to incitement to violence against British interests. Of the artificiality of the whole movement there need not be the slightest doubt, but it is an uncomfortable fact that with the judicious expenditure of comparatively small sums, the origin of which it would not be difficult to guess, this agitation is being maintained in an area over which the Japanese have, or should have the completest possible control. Failure to exercise this must naturally bring under suspicion that,—to use a very much overworked word—"sincerity" the exclusive possession of which the Japanese so very often claim, while denying that others whose interests they threaten are endowed with any such quality. It is obvious that relations between Britons and Japanese in China stand no chance whatever of being improved so long as this lack of sincerity on the part of the Japanese is so marked a characteristic of their conduct.

If, to quote a Domei message, Anglo-Japanese relations are rapidly deteriorating the responsibility lies fairly, and squarely with the Japanese. Because the British, in common with other foreign nationals in China, cannot see eye to eye with Japanese contentions, Japan is seeking all manner of reprisals aimed to secure their ends in a manner which is as immoral as it can possibly be. With the declaration of the temporary assumption of sovereignty in those parts of China which they have overrun the Japanese have accepted the responsibility for the establishment, and continuance of a state of law, and order. They cannot have it both ways. Either they are in control of the areas surrounding Shanghai, and, consequently, have laid upon them the responsibilities of an efficient government, or they are not. They cannot hide behind the various Chinese administrations which they have set up, for their control over them is just as complete as that of a creator over his creature. Thus while the British authorities have clearly demonstrated a willingness to co-operate with the Japanese as far as lies within their power, the Japanese have not only failed to co-operate, but are positively engaged upon a campaign of interference with British rights and interests which cannot be excused upon any ground whatever. It is a demonstration of bad faith in all its nakedness and can be classified by no other term. It is an important fact to which the Note refers that the strike at the Lun Chong Mills was actually settled, and that the workers, willing to return to their duties, have been prevented from doing so by the irregular action of gangs of bad characters whose suppression is clearly the duty of the Japanese. There is, therefore, no real issue between employers and employees, but rather an artificially-maintained agitation which has no merit about it, save, perhaps, that it may serve to assist the Japanese to serve some obscure end they may have in view. If parallels are sought from other places it should not be too difficult to understand what the objective may be. The fact is that with the continued existence of British factories, etc., as well as of other third party neutral concerns, the machinery for resuming trade with the interior will remain, and when it is opened up, as ultimately it must be, the Japanese will face that competition which it is clear by their actions they fear even now.

Another phase of the matter may very well be that, by isolating British interests for attack, some progress may be made in destroying that community of interest which undoubtedly exists between foreigners, no matter of what nationality, other than Japanese, trading in China. But those nationals at present not receiving these unpleasant attentions of the Japanese,—for the responsibility of no one else can possibly be accepted,—may rest assured that if the time ever comes when the success of these moves against British interests becomes apparent, they in their turn will be subjected to the same activities. The total elimination of third party Powers from China has been an often-declared intention of the Japanese, not by persons whose utterances may not count, but by men whose authority cannot be questioned. The issue in which Japan and Great Britain are at present involved is one of importance to all those other countries who can expect no gentler treatment of their rights and interests than that to which British are being subjected at the moment. This needs to be remembered in view of the attempts which are apparently being made to differentiate between Great Britain and themselves, but they realize the point so well that it is more than doubtful whether Japanese attempts in this direction will meet with anything like success. The struggle may be only beginning, but Great Britain is not without means of powerful reply. She will be reluctant to embark upon retaliation, but it is a weapon in her hands, which, properly applied, would have the effect of rapidly bring the Japanese to their senses. Japan economically is vulnerable; she can be reached in so many ways, every one of which would prove very expensive to herself, and if at the moment Great Britain hesitates to apply them, it is because even at this hour it is hoped that the Japanese will see the error of their ways and return to courses more consonant with their assurances and the honour of their country.

Russia's Strength

When so much is being written and said about the comparative merits of the fighting forces of Soviet Russia, it is interesting to receive a copy of a brochure compiled by the Rt. Hon. Arthur Greenwood on "The Soviet's Fighting Forces," which has been issued under the auspices of the Anglo-Russian Parliamentary Committee. The work, which appeared in April last, was obviously prepared with an eye towards the negotiations which are proceeding for the purpose of bringing about a defensive alliance between Great Britain, France, and Russia, and as the work opens with the phrase "No really effective system of collective security against further aggression by Fascist and Nazi states can be organized with the participation of the U.S.S.R." the aim which the compiler of the work had in view is apparent. Nevertheless amongst the various utterances of authorities on the subject of military science of various nationalities, there is sufficient to show that those who are disposed lightly to regard the Russian military machine are likely to be very considerably surprised if at any time it is put to the test. Much is made of M. Voroshilov's utterances on the subject at the Communist Party Conference in March of this year. He is the People's Commissar for Defence, and can be depended upon to make the most of the facts concerning the weapon of defence of which he is in charge. He can, however, be ignored in favour of the declarations of others not so likely to find a swan in this particular Russian goose. Of the Russian air force Major Lord, well-known American air ace during the Great War writes of what he saw in Spain:—

> Their bombers are veritable flying fortresses; they are so fast and so difficult to hit that they can carry out raids without being accompanied by fighter planes to protect them. As far as the Soviet fighter planes are concerned, they are, in my opinion, superior to the corresponding planes sent to Spain by all other countries.

It is as well that this should be remembered by those who are impressed by the recent claims of the wholesale downing of aeroplanes of Russian make on the Mongolian-Manchoukuo border, where if all that is said is correct, the machines most obviously were seriously out-of-date. General von Cochenhausen, Commandant of the Academy of the Military Air Fleet, and president of the Gesellschaft Für Wehrpolitik und Wehrwissenschaft, in the annual report of the latter, wrote "The army of the U.S.S.R. is at the present time the most gigantic army that has ever been organized in the world." Of the quality of the Russian soldier there cannot be the slightest doubt, and those who fancy that the purges which have been carried out in the ranks of the U.S.S.R. forces may have weakened them from the point of view of command may yet see that their beliefs will not be justified in the event. If there is any degree of real leadership in existence it might have the opportunity to prove itself, in the event of a war breaking out, and it is apparent from the brochure that the strength of Russia is such that her adherence to a tripartite defensive alliance with Great Britain and France, will prove to be the biggest factor for peace which is available at the present moment. With the sympathy of the United States with such a combination, and their economic support in certain circumstances this anti-aggression combination, if it is brought about may prove the most potent inspiration for peace which the world has ever seen.

A Country Diary

June 10.—Out walking early this morning—a sort of farewell parade as I am sailing for Weihaiwei at 10 a.m.—I was fascinated by the vast number of birds to be seen everywhere, and my eye was attracted to the peculiar positions which different birds adopt when alarmed: the natural instinct of every bird is to take to flight when alarmed, but a careful observer may note a definite stiffening of the body, either in a horizontal or vertical direction, which is a bird's very first reaction to fear: ground-feeding birds such as Pheasant, Partridge and Quail, stiffen horizontally and remain in that position until the alarm is over: others follow the method of the Bittern and straighten up vertically: the Bittern (of which we see very little here) is a very specialized bird with up-and-down stripes to match the reeds; he puts his head and bill up in the air, sways gently with the reeds from side to side and thus becomes practically indistinguishable from his surroundings. All of which thoughts reminded me of the Ostrich, that most maligned of all God's creatures. Ever so many years ago some half-baked traveller came back to England and spread the libel that the Ostrich when in a state of fear buries his head in the sand and thus foolishly thinks he is hidden: hence we have such expressions as "the foolish Ostrich"—an "Ostrich-like policy" and the libel is repeated from day to day. The Hon. Member says in Parliament, when replying to the Hon. Member opposite...."my honourable friend follows the policy of the Ostrich and, when questioned, hides his head in the sands of ill-founded rumour"....or words to that effect. Yet the fact remains that no Ostrich ever did such a foolish thing: when desiring to hide it lies down flat, stretches its long neck out in front with the head flat on the ground and the eyes all attention. It is, indeed a most sensible bird...and does nothing more than most other birds do when alarmed. It adopts the flat, horizontal, position which is Nature's easiest form of camouflage.

Bit About Tattooing

SOMETIMES a sailor will regret his tattoo marks, but that is only if, having gone in for intertwined hearts and a girl's name, he changes girls. The alteration is rather a nuisance.

One sentimentalist thought he could overcome this difficulty by having intertwined hearts with the cover-all inscription: "Me and You."

"Tra la la!" she replied, swinging her foot higher.

"No amount of tra-la-la will avail you now," he hissed. "We know you have the papers!"

"Pouah!" she retorted, and gaily swung her foot so high that her shoe shot out of the window.

"And pouah to you!" tersed the chief of police.

Boredom

How long it seems, writes Showman in the "Daily Herald," since that extremely Regular Army officer remarked, on the first Armistice Day, "Well, thank God, that's over. Now we can get back to real soldiering."

The day before he had been in much the same frame of mind as that in which we find ourselves now—which is boredom shot through with nostalgia.

Only yesterday a sub-editor spoke to me with a sigh which vibrated with old agitations of myrtles and roses.

He turned wearily from the day's important news—you know it—and he said, "If only I could write a heading right across page one—'Great Thunderstorm Sweeps Country': that," he said, "was the stuff which made life worth living."

Like Mr. Basil Boofuls, I understood.

And, like Mr. Basil Boofuls, I decided then and there to do something about it.

I always think there is something rather wonderful, rather simple (if a little sad) about doing something about something. I wonder if you do. I wish you would think that over. Will you?

So I had a look for the right kind of news, and I found traces of it in the following headlines:—

"Lord Bledisloe's Hen Lays 70oz. Egg:"
"A Long Kiss And A Bear's Hug:"
"Oldest Motorist Is Chief Of Rowing Club."

May I make it quite plain that none of these headings has any connection with the others?

And may I also hope that, when this kind of news once more takes its rightful place on page one, Lord Bledisloe's hen will give it a proper send-off by laying a 10oz. egg?

Aye! I think I may.

King And Queen Visit World's Fair

Three Million People Line New York Streets In Tumultuous Welcome to Their Majesties; Million School Children Cheer in Park

New York, June 11.

KING George and Queen Elizabeth visited the New York World's Fair yesterday after receiving the greatest welcome of their entire North American tour here in the Western Hemisphere's greatest city. Greeted by a 21 gun salute, Their Majesties were welcomed to the World's Fair grounds by Mr. Grover Whalen, head of the Fair, as hundreds of thousands of Americans cheered wildly.

The arrival at the Fair grounds was behind schedule, forcing Their Majesties to curtail their programme. The King merely saluted the soldiers, sailors and marines who presented arms as he arrived at the Federal Building. Original plans had called for a review of the troops by the King. Queen Elizabeth smiled and waved to the crowd which broke into thunderous cheers.

An estimated 3,000,000 people packed streets and buildings along the route Their Majesties followed from New York's famous Battery to the Fair grounds, where another vast throng awaited them.

The temperature was in the high eighties and the weather appeared threatening. Rain fell for a short time after the King and Queen reached the Fair grounds.

The huge crowds were orderly, although they broke through police lines in some places. Many disregarded Scotland Yard's request that all building windows along the route of Their Majesties' tour be kept closed. The uproarious welcome included a shower of ticker tape along West Street, but closed windows along most of the route deprived Their Majesties of their full share of fanfare from the brokers' offices.

Typical New York Greeting

The King and Queen motored to the Fair grounds after a brief tour around the outer fringes of Manhattan. They did not drive down the "Heroes Lane" section of Broadway where most notables are paraded.

Their Majesties disembarked from a Navy destroyer at Warrington Battery from Red Bank, N.J. They were immediately swept into the tumult of a New York welcome as ship and factory whistles blew and thousands of Americans gathered at the Battery cheered them.

The Governor, Mr. Herbert Lehman, and the Mayor of New York, Mr. Fiorello LaGuardia, welcomed Their Majesties as they disembarked from the destroyer. A thirteen car parade then started the tour of the city and the trip to the World's Fair grounds.

The parade passed the German Consulate overlooking the Battery and viewed a prominent display of Nazi flags.

At the World's Fair

At the World's Fair grounds the King and Queen visited the British and Canadian pavilions and had luncheon in the Federal Building with a group of prominent New Yorkers including the Governor and Mayor.

Never in the history of New York were such extreme precautions taken as those enforced yesterday. All traffic from Redbank and Sandy Hook, fourteen miles distant, was halted after midnight. Anti-aircraft batteries were fully manned. Aeroplane detectors were in place to spot and bring down any unauthorized plane. A dozen coast guard cutters patrolled New York harbour throughout the night. One of the cutters checked all lifebuoys to make certain none was shifted.

As early as dawn, crowds started forming from the Battery and all available space was filled long before Their Majesties arrived. Because of the heavy demand for tickets, the authorities were forced to relax original restrictions regarding the number of spectators allowed to stand along the parade route. The authorities permitted spectators to enter the parade route until the streets were filled to capacity.

See Nearly Every Phase

Although the King and Queen missed the traditional ride down Broadway and the splendour of Fifth Avenue, they saw nearly every phase of New York's physical character, including the slums and part of Harlem, which is inhabited by Negroes.

Morning newspapers warned the people against carrying light lunches with them because the police and detectives were instructed to search anyone in the crowds with bundles of any kind.

A piece of red plush carpet measuring 290 feet was spread on Pier No. 1, which was also whitewashed. The street cleaners swept and reswept and then washed the entire parade route during the night.

American and British flags were distributed free to 100,000 of the estimated 1,000,000 school children who were transported to Central Park to see Their Majesties.

Subways and elevated railways carried capacity loads from early morning. Barricades were erected around all buildings on the Fair grounds which were entered by Their Majesties.

Popular American tunes played for the visitors by the Fair bands included "Rhapsody in Blue" and "Alexander's Ragtime Band."—United Press.

King and Queen at Hyde Park

Quiet Week-end with Pres. And Mrs. Roosevelt; Visit Columbia University

Hyde Park, June 11.

King George and Queen Elizabeth arrived at the Roosevelt family estate here last night for the quietest party of their entire tour of the United States.

The King and Queen made the 75 mile drive to Hyde Park along the Hudson Parkway after a strenuous day of sight-seeing at the New York World's Fair. They will spend a quiet week-end here with President and Mrs. Roosevelt, their son James and the President's mother, Mrs. Sarah Roosevelt.

In approximately six hours, Their Majesties saw the New York skyline and then headed a brilliant parade which visited the New York World's Fair. Later, they visited Columbia University, known as King's College before the American Revolution.

At Columbia University they were welcomed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president, and introduced to the university trustees. Dr. Butler, gave the King a handbound blue leather book containing the university seal and a copy of the welcoming address.

Estate Surrounded with Troops

Two thousand National Guardsmen, besides 18 battalions of the regular Army from West Point guarded Poughkeepsie, N.Y. six miles from Hyde Park, and the approaches to the Roosevelt estate last night.

The King and Queen made the trip to Hyde Park in a closed car because of rain. After leaving New York City they travelled about 45 miles per hour along the Hudson Parkway.

This was the speed at which the parade in New York had been planned in order to speed up the reception for the King and Queen. Queen Elizabeth, however, turned to Mayor LaGuardia and Governor Lehman and complained that "the people cannot see." The Mayor ordered the pilot car to be slowed down to 20 miles per hour for the remainder of the drive to the Fair Grounds.

President's "Dream Cottage"

President and Mrs. Roosevelt arrived here several hours ahead of Their Majesties in order to make last minute arrangements for the reception of their guests.

The King and Queen will be able to linger in the rambling two storey frame house overlooking the 1,000 acres Roosevelt estate on the majestic Hudson River.

Mrs. Roosevelt plans a "hot dog" picnic in the President's "dream cottage," at the top of Duchess Hill, a cottage the President himself designed as a place of refuge from strenuous affairs of state. The cottage has no telephone.

Their Majesties, the Roosevelts and 80 others will attend services today at St. James Episcopal Church in Hyde Park. Services will be conducted by the Rev. Frank R. Wilson. Later, they will return to the Roosevelt estate.—United Press.

Extraordinary Feat Of U.S. Destroyer

Stops in 58 Seconds Going 40 Knots

New York, June 11.

Naval experts gasped with amazement and qualified as "extraordinary" the feat accomplished by a new United States destroyer, the U.S.S. Hammann, when the vessel, travelling at a speed of 40 knots stopped in 58 seconds.

The vessel was being tested for approval by the Navy Department, and was being tested off Long Island.

To prove its efficiency, its constructors ordered that the skipper signal for "full speed astern" when the ship had reached its maximum forward speed of 40 knots. The vessel stopped in 58 seconds in a distance only two and a half times its length. The "full speed astern" was maintained for fifteen minutes, the vessel reaching a speed of 20 knots going astern. The "full speed ahead" was then ordered, and the vessel regained its speed of 40 knots in one minute and 10 seconds.—Havas.

House Adopts New Tax Provisions

Washington, June 11.

The House of Representatives gave tentative approval yesterday to new tax provisions of the social security bill estimated to involve a saving of $1,710,000,000 in present and future taxes in the next three years. The bill was expected to be passed later in the day.—United Press.

Sugar Crop Increases

The Japan Sugar Manufacturers Association estimates that the total sugar production in Formosa for the coming season will total approximately 2,954 million lb. as compared with 2,710 million lb. for the season which ended in April.—Reuter.

Blockade of Tientsin Is Expected Soon

China Association Sends Cable to Foreign Office

Tientsin, June 11.

An extraordinary meeting of the local China Association yesterday decided to send an urgent cable to the Foreign Office, stating that the magnitude of the issue involved in Tientsin warranted further consideration of the matter.

Authoritative quarters emphatically state that no ultimatum has been presented by the Japanese to the British authorities. It is widely believed, however, that the Japanese will enforce a blockade of the British Concession on June 14 or 15, unless some circumstance intervenes.

All Japanese firms have now virtually completed their evacuation from the British Concession. The evacuation of the remainder proceeds apace, there being no indication of early British compliance with the Japanese demand for the surrender of the four Chinese wanted for alleged implication in the murder of Mr. Cheng Shi-kang, the Commissioner of Customs.

The British Concession branch of the Federal Reserve Bank is believed to be the latest institution ordered to evacuate. Meanwhile, the Yokohama Specie Bank, which is moving out to the Japanese Concession, has requested foreign banks to close their clearing accounts. It has also announced that it is temporarily suspending its export exchange business.

Importers are alleged to have been requested by the Bank to supply a guarantee that their cargo will not be discharged in the foreign areas should a blockade be enforced.—Reuter.

"Calm Before Storm"

Tientsin, June 11.

Tense "calm before a storm" prevailed here today as the city anxiously awaited the enforcement by Japanese authorities of measures to "isolate" the British Concession.

It was not known whether diplomatic negotiations would be resumed in an effort to settle the differences between Japanese and British authorities. It was generally anticipated that the Japanese authorities would start their announced policy of "independent action" regarding the British Concession in a few days.

The greater part of the Japanese who had been residing in the British and French Concessions have moved to the Japanese Concession or the Chinese quarter. The recent strained relations between Japanese and British authorities accelerated an evacuation of Japanese from the Concessions which was started last September.

Sensing the stiffening of the Japanese attitude toward the British, numerous Chinese residents and several merchants have moved out of the British Concession. On the other hand movements of various kinds of commodities into the Concessions have increased in the past few days.

All the officials of the Special Municipality were said to have evacuated the British Concession. It was reported that the Special Municipality authorities would issue an appeal to the Chinese inhabitants of the city in a few days, urging them to adopt a "firm attitude" toward the Concession in line with the Japanese authorities' stand.

Japanese residents were said to be strongly in favour of holding mass meeting in order to impress upon the British authorities the seriousness of the situation.—Domei.

First Measures Taken

Tokyo, June 11.

First measures to isolate the British and French Concessions in Tientsin are now reported in semi-official Japanese dispatches.

It is stated that the branch offices of the Yokohama Specie Bank, and the Federal Reserve Bank, have been transferred from the British to the Japanese Concession, and that the Customs House has decided to make a similar move.

Forty-two Japanese residents in the British Concession, and 59 Japanese residents in the French Concession, are stated to have completed preparations to transfer their businesses.—Reuter.

Royalties to Be Paid On "Mein Kampf"

Chancellor Hitler's Rights Upheld in U.S.

New York, June 11.

The United States representative of the National Socialist Central Publishing Company Franz Eher Nachf. of Germany, obtained from the Federal Appellate Court yesterday an injunction against the New York publishing firm of Stackpole & Sons to restrain the publication by this firm of an unauthorized version of Adolf Hitler's book "Mein Kampf" or by a certain newspaper concern.

The Appellate Court emphasized in its comment supporting the decision that Adolf Hitler and his publishers had a right to copyright protection, the Stackpole Publishing Company having made use of the fact that at the time the book first appeared Adolf Hitler was without nationality, in order to avoid payment of royalties and in this way to advertise the unauthorized version.

Furthermore, the Appellate Court pointed out that any other decision would have deprived all emigres in the United States without nationality of all copyright protection were the arguments advanced by the Stackpole Publishing Company to be recognized as valid.—Trans-Ocean.

Mills Benefit Through Conscription

Extensive Orders Placed For Uniform Material

London, June 11.

The magnitude of the demands made on sections of the industry unconnected with armament production by the enlargement of armed forces is demonstrated in orders which the Government has placed with boot manufacturers for 1,000,000 pairs of boots intended for militiamen and increased numbers of Territorials, as well as in orders for nearly 3,000 miles of khaki, which is now being woven in Yorkshire mills for uniforms, the total cost of which will be not less than £4,000,000.

This last order is not the only one for service purposes from which textile industries are benefitting. Other recent orders include 2,000,000 yards of cotton overall material for the Royal Air Force and 15,000,000 yards of heavy duck for the army.—Wireless through Reuter.

Police Forbid Export Of Foodstuffs

Peiping, June 11.

In order to maintain an adequate store of foodstuffs in Peiping, the Peiping police bureau has taken steps to forbid the free movement of provisions. Residents in the suburbs of Peiping wishing to purchase rice or flour from Peiping must possess certificates issued by a rice shop and by the foodstuffs guild before policemen at the various city gates will allow such foodstuffs to leave the city.—Reuter.

New Clash Between Czechs and Germans in Czechoslovakia

Reich Protector Orders Utmost Severity in Inquiry; Klavno Measures Postponed on Czech Assurances

Prague, June 11.

DESPITE the strictest precautions, a further clash between Czechs and Germans has occurred in Czechoslovakia, increasing the tension between the two peoples. While the Klavno incident, in which a German police official is alleged to have been murdered by Czechs, is still the subject of investigation, Czech and German police were involved in a fight yesterday at Nachod, in northern Bohemia, which resulted in the death of a Czech policeman. An enquiry is now being carried out jointly by German and Czech authorities.

The incident, according to a communique, was due to "a series of deplorable incidents." The Reich Protector, Baron von Neurath, has ordered that investigations be carried out with the utmost severity. All persons involved are under arrest.

The Czech Prime Minister yesterday called on Herr Frank, German Secretary of State, and expressed the regrets of the Czech Government for the Klavno incident. He assured Herr Frank that the Czech authorities would do everything in their power to arrest the murderer or murderers.

Threatened Measures Suspended

As a result of this interview, the German authorities have decided to refrain from taking the measures announced yesterday against Klavno.

These included the imposition of a fine of 500,000 Czech crowns, curfew between 8 p.m. and 5 a.m., closure of all cinemas, schools and public places, and closing and bolting of all doors and windows under penalty of having "shots fired through them."

A communiqué issued by Baron von Neurath says that the result of investigations into the attitude of the Czech population, and the measures taken by the Czech Government of the Protectorate, enables the Reich Protector to abstain from reinforcing the present exceptional measures as contemplated. Reports circulated abroad regarding large-scale arrests, involving hundreds of people, are described as incorrect.—Reuter.

Western Democracies Blamed

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Berlin, June 11.

The Western Democracies are accused by the official "Diplomatische Korrespondenz" today of trying to poison the relations between Germans and Czechs.

Obviously referring to the Klavno incident—in which a German police official is alleged to have been killed by Czechs—the newspaper states: "If hotheads disturb order, the consequences will not burden Greater Germany but the Protectorate itself. Such attempts will only induce the Reich to work in every proper way, even with severity if necessary, for a peaceful building up of Bohemian lands.

Mediation Denied

Meanwhile, rumours abroad that an attempt at mediation between Germany and Poland is now in progress are categorically denied. An inspired statement to the foreign press asserts that it would be erroneous to deduce, from the comparative calmness in the German press at "Polish anti-German demonstrations," that an attempt at mediation is being made.

"The political tension regarding the Danzig question caused by Poland," the statement adds, "continues unabated."—Reuter.

Poland Rejects Danzig Demands

Number of Polish Officials Inadequate; Strong Action Threatened as Reprisal

Warsaw, June 11.

The Polish Government has rejected the demand of the Danzig Senate for a reduction in the number of Polish Customs officials in the Free City. The demand, Warsaw has informed the Senate, is absolutely unfounded, and the opinion of the Polish Government is that the number of Polish officials is insufficient.

Referring to the Kalthof incident, in which Germans are alleged to have attacked a Polish Customs post, the reply says that the instructions issued to Danzig Customs officials to accept no orders or suggestions from Polish Customs inspectors are completely unjustified. The step, it alleges, is solely to create difficulties for Polish Customs inspectors.

Further, the Note asserts, the instructions are contrary to the Warsaw agreement. Should any dispute arise as a result of these instructions, it is stated, the Polish Government will hold the Senate fully responsible.

"Any attempt to curtail the sphere of Polish control," the reply declares, "will be considered by the Polish Government as unwarranted and an infringement of the obligations undertaken by the Free City.

"Should the Senate fail to give consideration to the fully justified demands of the Polish Government, and have the National Socialist oath administered to Customs officials in the Free City, the Polish Government will have to consider what measures to take, since Danzig Customs officials will then provide less guarantee for Polish Customs laws being respected than heretofore."—Reuter.

American Observer Believes Hostilities Will End in Stalemate

Major Chinese Counter-Offensive Impossible Unless More Foreign Aid is Provided

New York, June 11.

The outcome of the present Sino-Japanese war is likely to be some sort of compromise affording temporary peace pending a renewal of the struggle later, according to Mr. Walter H. Mallory in the current issue of the magazine "Foreign Affairs" published today.

The article, entitled "The Strategy of Chiang Kai-shek" says the Chinese Generalissimo has a consistent plan of resistance, much of which was formulated in detail before the outbreak of current hostilities. This strategy, said the article, was as follows:

1. Remain on the defensive until the Japanese have been completely extended.
2. Intensify guerilla fighting to keep the invaders occupied while the Chinese reorganize their armies.
3. Launch a broad counter-offensive after the objectives of the first two steps have been accomplished.

The article said the Sino-Japanese war at present is in the second stage and predicted a major Chinese counter-offensive might never be possible unless more foreign aid is forthcoming to China. The article emphasized the importance to China of arousing her people to prolonged resistance.

In order to control China, said Mr. Mallory, Japan must also take the foreign concessions. Gen. Chiang would welcome such a move, the article said, because it would increase the chance of western aid to China.

In order to win the war, Mr. Mallory said, China must reorganize and strengthen her Army for counter-attack, or Japan must collapse at home.

In order for Japan to win, she must crush all military resistance, restore order in China and gain Chinese co-operation, Mr. Mallory said.

Since neither side seems capable of obtaining all their objectives, he predicts an eventual compromise and temporary peace.—United Press.

Germany and Italy Wooing Franco

Efforts to Capitalize on Help Afforded Him; Count Ciano Going to Spain

London, June 11.

Both Italy and Germany are making every effort to turn their assistance to General Francisco Franco in the Spanish war to their economic and political advantage.

Towards this end, Herr Hitler has sent his Minister of Economics, Herr Wohltat, to Spain, while talks are in progress in Rome between Count Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister, and Senor Suner, Spanish Minister of the Interior.

The conversations in the Italian capital are said to be for the purpose of paving the way for commercial, economic and political agreements with a view to the eventual adherence of Spain to the Axis. Count Ciano is expected to go to Madrid at the end of this month to sign these agreements.

Signor Mussolini yesterday received Senor Suner, who was accompanied by Spanish military and naval missions, at the Palazzo Venezia, after which Il Duce and General Franco exchanged cordial telegrams proclaiming eternal friendship between the two countries.

In Berlin, the mission of Herr Wohltat is regarded as of the greatest importance to German industry.

The Minister of Economics is said to have been sent to prepare the ground for concrete trade relations. Germany is particularly interested in Spain's ores and minerals, especially iron, and she hopes to obtain concessions for opening her own furnaces on the spot and acquiring mining rights.—Reuter.

Count Ciano's Visit

Rome, June 10.

The Italian Foreign Minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, will probably visit Spain during the last week of June, several organs of the press here reported today. The Minister will be repaying the visit made to Rome by Spanish Home Minister Serrano Suner a short time ago.

Well-informed political circles foresee the conclusion of political and economic accords between Spain and Italy as a possible result of the visit to be paid to Madrid by Count Galeazzo Ciano. They however consider unlikely the signature of military accords, since such agreements could only be tantamount to a complete integration of Spain into the axis.

On the other hand, it is held not impossible that minor general staff agreements be concluded between Italy and Spain.

The big problem, however, remains that of economic relations between both countries, as the debts contracted in Italy by Nationalist Spain amount to more than eight billion liras and Italy will certainly try to obtain from General Franco repayment of this sum by a participation in the development of the natural riches of Spain.—Havas.

Italians Leave Spain

350 Aviators Embark After Farewell Banquet

Cadiz, June 10.

More than 350 Italian airmen who took part in the Spanish War embarked today aboard the Duilio bound for Italy.

A farewell banquet was given to the aviators by the Cadiz Municipal Council. In the speech he delivered on that occasion, Colonel Guglielmotti, commander of the Italian Pursuit Division in Spain, declared that Italy had taken wholeheartedly part in "Spain's struggle against communism" and that the bodies of more than 4,000 Italian legionaries remain as a witness of the close links uniting new Spain with Fascist Italy.

The Italian airmen are accompanied on their trip home by a Spanish delegation headed by General Kindelan.—Havas.

Attempt Made to Poison Entire Nanking Government

Officials Served with Poisoned Wine at Banquet At Japanese Consulate-General; Suspect Caught

Nanking June 11.

PROMPT medical attention today had saved the lives of high Japanese and Chinese officials here who were served poisoned Chinese wine at a banquet at the Japanese Consulate-General last night. The victims of this attempted mass murder, attending physicians said this afternoon, were out of danger unless complications set in. Feared most by the doctors was the possibility that several of the victims, who are of advanced age, may develop uremia.

One Chinese suspect was arrested by the Japanese authorities last night, while an intensive search for his accomplices was launched today. The "brains" of the plot was understood to be still at large.

The attempt was made yesterday evening at a dinner given by the Japanese Consulate-General honouring Mr. Tomesaburo Shimzu, Parliamentary Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, now on a visit here.

Soon after emptying their cups in a toast to the guest of honour, those attending the banquet became ill. Physicians from the Dojinkai Hospital, as well as Japanese military surgeons, were summoned to administer first aid.

Leading Members Present

Had the plot been successful, the key members of the Reformed Government would have been wiped out for present at the function were Mr. Liang Hung-chih, Chairman of the Executive Yuan; Mr. Wen Tsung-yao, President of the Legislative Yuan; Gen. Jen Yuan-tao, Minister of Public Security; Mr. Ku Cheng, Minister of Education; Mr. Hu Jeng-tai, Minister of Justice, and Mr. Kao Kuan-wu, Mayor of Nanking. Several high Japanese military and consular officials were also present, bringing to total attendance to more than 20 persons.

Mr. Liang was only slightly affected as he had not imbibed much wine, physicians said.

Regret was expressed today by a Japanese consular spokesman that many officials, particularly high Chinese officials, should have suffered "from an oversight of the Consulate-General."

"Fortunately, the effect of the poison was checked before it had time to be fatal," the spokesman declared.

Mr. Liang, interviewed at the Dojinkai hospital this evening, told Domei that he expected to return home tomorrow.

Mayor Kao, who was among those worst affected, will be detained for a few days, physicians said.—Domei.

Building "Racket" at N.Y. World Fair

New York Workers Demand Exclusive Rights

New York, June 11.

The "N.Y. Times" today severely criticized the action of New York unions which created a difficult situation when demanding that all work at the World's Fair be carried out by New York workers.

The state of Nevada decided to withdraw from the Fair following the demand received from the unions that New York workers be employed to erect a huge replica of the Boulder Dam. The workers, it was stated, asked for exorbitant rates.

On the other hand, M. Van Aben, Holland representative and Director of the Association of Foreign Commissioners in the Fair, also criticized the attitude of the unions compelling all participants to use New York workers, despite the fact that foreign participants had brought their own working squads to accomplish their task speedily and efficiently.

The "Times" qualified the action of the unions as a "racket" and demanded that measures be taken to put an end of it.—Havas.

Rome, June 11.

Premier Benito Mussolini, standing between the King and the Spanish Home Minister, Sr. Serrano Suner, reviewed 22,000 Italian sailors here yesterday in the first official Navy Day celebrations.

The King later presented more than 400 decorations, the first of which went to Admiral Arturo Riocardi, commander of the Adriatic Fleet which carried out landing operations in Albania.

Meanwhile, "La Tribuna" announced that four dreadnoughts and twelve modern cruisers would "soon strengthen the mighty Italian Fleet."—United Press.

Belgian Surprise

Proposal for New Issue Of Treasury Bonds

Brussels, June 11.

The Government sprung a surprise upon the country today by requesting powers to issue Treasury bonds with duration up to five years, and repayable at the holder's option in foreign currency.

This was designed not only to attract hoarded national funds but possibly to make the bonds attractive in other money markets where funds are idle.

The Government's new budget foresees borrowings up to 1,750,000,000 francs with revenues being increase by the same amount. This total was declared essential to cover the deficit on the old budget as well as additional expenditures in the new budget.—United Press.

World Conference Suggested

British Cabinet Believes Germany Can Be Satisfied By Peaceful Means

London, June 11.

The British Cabinet believes it possible to grant satisfaction to Germany by peaceful methods and is contemplating the convocation of an international conference from the agenda of which no question, not even the colonial problem, would be excluded, the "Sunday Express" stated this morning, this view being shared by the majority of the Sunday press.

In order to create a favourable international atmosphere, the paper added, a limitationn of armaments would be suggested.

"It is thought possible that the German response to the peace gesture may be to take strong action in Danzig or elsewhere in the belief that it can be taken with safety," the "Sunday Express" continued. "It is understood that steps are being taken to make it plain that such a risk cannot safely be taken and that any further aggression must be met by force. London diplomats believe a crisis may occur within the next few weeks. Whether it will go further than diplomatic shouting will depend upon the circumstances."

The diplomatic editor of the "Sunday Pictorial" says Mr. Chamberlain remains convinced that "soothing words and promises of economic benefits will draw Hitler and Mussolini to the conference table."

The Prime Minister is, therefore, the paper added, prepared to go to any length and to make any sacrifice to ensure peace. His political campaign remains based on the policy of appeasement.

The "Sunday Pictorial" stated that many Cabinet members are of the opinion that appeasement implies further concessions to the dictators, and fear that Mr. Chamberlain may seek a conciliation with Herr Hitler by giving up Poland and by making colonial concessions. Military leaders, the paper stressed, are violently opposed to any colonial concessions which they consider "strategic suicide."—Havas.

No Turning Back for Britain

Mr. Athony Eden on The New Peace Front

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, June 11.

Addressing a Conservative demonstration near Warwick yesterday, Mr. Anthony Eden, former Foreign Secretary, declared that the Government, having decided upon a peace front, could not turn back.

He gave a warning too that it would be the wildest folly not to include in that front all nations with no aggressive aims, whatever their politics.

Regarding Russia, Mr. Eden said that "our dislike of Communism could not blind us to the fact that Russia is neither aggressive nor expansionist."—Reuter.

Sentenced for False Accusations

15 Years' Imprisonment For Russian Teacher

Moscow, June 11.

The Kiev Supreme Court today sentenced to fifteen years imprisonment a teacher named Spitckak, found guilty of false accusations.

In five years, Spitckak falsely accused about one hundred persons of counter-revolutionary activities. Today's sentence is the stiffest yet meted out on similar charges. The crime of false accusation is being more and more severely punished.

The same Supreme Court reversed the decision of a lower tribunal which sentenced a student of the Kouibycheff school of propaganda to five years in prison for anti-Soviet agitation. An investigation had shown that the only anti-Soviet activity of the youth was to ask his teachers very difficult questions.—Havas.

Britain Blamed for Anti-British Agitation in Shanghai

Japanese Newspaper Says Opposition is Natural; Anglo-Japanese Relations Deteriorate

"IF Great Britain wishes to protect her rights and interests in China we must give her a warning that she should discover other measures than those 'tending to benefit the regime of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek,' and without 'insisting upon her rights in general as if conditions were normal,' as was mentioned in the communique issued by the Japanese naval authorities in Shanghai on Friday," declared the "Tairiku Shimpo" yesterday in an editorial entitled "Inevitability of Anti-British Campaign."

"The anti-British atmosphere which is prevailing among the Japanese people at this time is the expression of their national indignation and protest against the British policies toward Japan," the daily said. "And so long as Britain maintains her present policies she has no right to make a protest against the anti-British feeling.

"It is not necessary for Britain to point out that there is strong anti-British feeling among the Japanese. We know the existence of such feeling, which we intend neither to deny nor to keep secret. But is it not Britain herself that is responsible for such anti-British feeling?

'Japan is now committed to a life or death campaign in China at the risk of her own fortunes with the object of destroying the anti-Japanese regime and bringing about the birth of a new China to create a new order in East Asia. And as it is Britain that is giving spiritual and material assistance to the anti-Japanese regime against which Japan is now fighting, it is only too natural and reasonable that she cannot have friendly feelings toward Britain.

No Right to Protest

"To express frankly the feelings of the Japanese people in general, they are not thinking that they are fighting the regime of Chiang Kai-shek only, but the regime of Chiang Kai-shek plus Britain. Such feelings on the part of the Japanese people are based upon solid facts.

"Engaged in giving aid to the regime Japan is fighting, and thus postponing a conclusion of the incident, Britain has no right to protest that there prevails among the Japanese anti-British sentiment, because this is just the price Britain has to pay for her assistance to Gen. Chiang Kai-shek. Britain may contend that she is not complaining about the anti-British feelings of the Japanese, but protesting against Japanese instigation and guidance of Chinese in their anti-British movements. We do not know whether Japanese really are participating in such movements, but it would not be surprising even if individual Japanese were joining in them.

Lun Chong Mill Strike

"However, to allege that the strike at the Lun Chong Cotton Mill has been brought about by Japanese instigation is a brazen distortion of the truth, because there can be no labour dispute without some grievance or dissatisfaction on the part of the workers. This ought to be well known to Britons in the light of their long labour movement history.

"The strike at the Lun Chong Cotton Mill is the result of the protest and revolt of the Chinese workers against their exploitation by British capitalists. And so long as the strike situation remains as it is Japan does not want to intervene in it, because Japan, though she is taking upon herself the task of maintaining peace and order in occupied areas and protecting the rights and interests of third Powers, cannot become the cat's-paw of British capitalists in breaking the strike.

"Mr. Yoshiaki Miura, Japanese Consul-General in Shanghai, on Friday filled a protest with Sir Herbert Phillips, British Consul-General here, in connection with the R. M. Tinkler case, and the protest was not limited only to a demand for a sincere consideration of the matter by the British authorities, but represented a demand for cessation of the attitude of ill-will against Japan on the part of Britain.

"On the other hand, the British authorities on Friday presented their counter-protest in the Tinkler case and it is reported that Sir Herbert on the preceding day verbally protested against anti-British movements in Pootung, and moreover presented a written protest again on Saturday.

"As is clear in the above brief review of recent events, though the Tinkler case is serious it is nothing but a mere incident that has arisen out of the general background of the deterioration of Anglo-Japanese relations in recent days.

"We cannot but feel that it is impossible for us to understand the nature of this incident and effect a solution of it if we consider it apart from its background. Anglo-Japanese relations in China have so deteriorated that they have brought about such incidents as the Tinkler case, and there is no certainty that similar happenings will not recur in the future."

Funeral Service Held For Broken Dolls

Unusual Ceremony Held At Tokyo School

With Buddhist rites like those for humans, an unique burial service for 26 broken dolls took place at the Teikoku Primary School, Tokyo, on Saturday.

The Principal of the school, Dr. Tetsuji Nishiyama, a graduate of New York University, stated that the service was held every year for the purpose of teaching children to "treat kindly the things which have given them pleasure."

He explained that children look upon dolls as human just like themselves and therefore when they are broken beyond repair, instead of throwing them away, the service is held for them in recognition of children's psychology.

The service was opened with prayers by three Buddhist priests. Following the religious rites poems composed by teachers of the school were read by the Principal. Flowers were placed at the grave site by 20 girl pupils. The dolls then were buried in a special "tomb" in the school grounds. On the tomb were inscribed the words, "Tomb for Dolls."

Flowers were placed in three large vases around the grave. Three Japanese dolls, three dolls used at the time of the girls' festival, 20 European and American dolls and two toy monkeys were buried.

The service was attended by about 400 persons, including 200 pupils and 200 parents, friends and teachers.

Kiaochiao Beach to Be Re-Opened

Will Be Used As Bathing Resort for Japanese

Rehabilitation of the sea bathing beach of the former Greater Shanghai Municipality on the east coast of Kaochiaochen in Pootung for the benefit of Japanese residents of Shanghai is planned by the Japanese-operated Shanghai Steam Navigation Company and officials of the Special Municipality, according to the "Tairiku Shimpo."

The sea beach is four kilometres by land from the Kaochiaochen wharf in the northern district of Pootung and faces the ocean at the mouth of the Yangtze. Several acres of land along the shore will accommodate thousands of bathers. Shallow water for a long distance makes swimming perfectly safe, the paper said.

A 600-passenger boat operated by the Shanghai Steam Navigation Company will carry bathers from Shanghai to Kaochiaochen in about one hour and a half. From there they can reach the beach in about 15 minutes.

For an apt description of this film, presented at the Grand Theatre yesterday, look at the title. This should conjure up all those mind pictures of plot, counter-plot, gunplay, fisticuffs, bad men, good men, "G" men, aerial excitement and last, but not least, the usual love match between the dashing hero and the pretty heroine. All of these things, with one exception, are displayed prominently in "Secret Service of the Air, but so fast is the action that the producers of the picture evidently could not find enough space for any of the love cooings of the hero to his lass. The heroine, however, does appear twice —once at the beginning and once at the end. Here we have Mr. Ronald Reagan as Lieut. "Brass" Bancroft, who, after flying as a civil air pilot, gets his big chance for fame when he is appointed to the U.S. Secret Service to bring in a bunch of bad men, whose sole means of livelihood is smuggling aliens into the country. Naturally, our hero, although this is his first assignment and, by the way, his first experience of secret service work, brings in the whole bunch. To do it he certainly has plenty of excitement and not a little luck but the film merrily wends it way and no one is sorry when the wicked men find their richly deserved deserts. This picture, although it cannot be classed as outstanding, should please all those who like a thrill or two to enliven their pleasure. In support are Mike Riley and his band, "Two Shadows," a comedy, and a cartoon, "Porky's Romance."—R.S.

Night School Opened At Pootung

Two-Hour Classes Offered Men Working During Day

Believed to be the first institution of its kind in Central China, a night school for students of business courses was established at Kaojao in the northern district of Pootung Saturday morning, the "Tairiku Shimpo" said yesterday morning. The new school will offer two-hour evening classes for the benefit of those Chinese youths who are working during the day-time.

Among the teachers are three young men who formerly were active in the ranks of anti-Japanese guerillas. One of them, Chin Hsing-yen, a graduate of Great China University, was at one time chief of a unit of the Fifth War Zone Guerilla Corps.

Educational, cultural and industrial conditions in the Kaojao district were showing steady improvement, the paper said. In the area are 13 schools with 5,000 pupils out of a total of 73 under the jurisdiction of the Shanghai Special Municipality. The Kaojao First Model Primary School has 1,400 pupils, the largest number of any school of its kind in Central China, the daily stated.

Bomb Outrages in Jerusalem

Explosions at Post Office And in Letter Boxes; Shots At Mayor of Jaffa

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Jerusalem, June 11.

Two bombs exploded yesterday in the main hall of the Jerusalem Post Office and injured eight people, including a British police official and two British constables. The interior of the building was wrecked.—Reuter.

Jerusalem, June 11.

Later in the day, another explosion in a letter-box caused the death of one person and injured eight others. The bomb was discovered before it went off, but exploded in the hands of a specialist who picked it up, killing him.

These letter-box explosions, which have resulted in one death and injuries to thirteen persons so far, are attributed to Jewish extremists. The police authorities have ordered a systematic search throughout the Jewish districts of the city. With the exception of the dead specialist, who was an Englishman, the other victims were all Arab postmen.

As a precautionary measure, the public has been banned from entering the various post offices in the city. An unexploded bomb was found today in a barn adjoining a post-office.

A late report announced the murder of a Jewish undertaker by unknown aggressors.—Havas.

League to Examine White Paper

Geneva, June 11.

The Permanent Mandates Commission of the League of Nations will soon examine the British Government's White Paper on Palestine.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, Chairman of the Jewish Agency in Palestine, has sent a letter to the Commission in which he stressed that the White Paper was in no way consonant with the Balfour Declaration.

"The British Government's conclusions represent the triumph of might and must appear to the Arab terriorists as a reward for their campaign of violence and to the Jews as a punishment for the moderation shown by them," Dr. Weizmann added. He concluded in expressing the hope that competent organs of the League would not sanction such a policy.—Havas.

Japanese Trial Enters Sixth Year

54 Men Still Held in "God-Sent Troops" Case

Tokyo, June 11.

Nearly six years after the incident, the trial of the 54 men arrested on a charge of being involved in the so-called "God-sent troops' plot," which is alleged to have aimed at assassinating members of the Cabinet, statesmen close to the Throne, and political party leaders and leading financiers, is still in progress.

The men were taken into custody in July 1933 and brought to trial in May 1937, and the case looks like continuing for a few years more.

The latest development is an application by the defendants to call a long list of witnesses, including some thirty of the leading statesmen and political leaders in Japan, to testify concerning the patriotic motives behind the plot.

It is not yet known what action will be taken, but if the application is granted by the presiding judge a most impressive list of notables will be called to testify, including the Genro, Prince Kimmochi Saionji, General Baron Sadao Araki and several former Premiers.—Reuter.

China Barters Tea For War Supplies

Exports Abroad Last Year Total $33,000,000

Chungking, June 11.

Of 800,000 cases of tea, bought and paid for by the Foreign Trade Commission of the Chinese Government in 1938, about half was sold to various foreign markets, while 264,000 cases were shipped abroad to barter for war and construction materials, it was officially revealed here today. It is estimated that China, in 1938, exported quantities of tea to a value of over $33,000,000.

By order of the Ministry of Finance, the Foreign Trade Commission controls the entire tea industry of China, taking charge of all local market purchases, and export, in co-operation with the China National Tea Corporation. The latter is a $2,000,000 concern, founded jointly by Government bankers and tea merchants in May, 1937.

The Tea Commission has ordered 96,000 cases of black brick tea and 48,000 cases of green brick tea for export to Soviet Russia. In addition, 68,000 cases of Fu tea, 1,500 cases of black brick tea, and 1,500 cases of Sa Mien brick tea were bought for export to the Soviet.

Another order, calling for 205,000 cases of brick tea, was also received from the Soviet, but the Commission failed to fill the order, owing to the approach of the hostilities to the brick tea producing centres on the Hunan-Hupeh border.—Reuter.

China's Big Education Losses

$65,000,000 Damage Done to Country's Institutions

Chungking, June 11.

Figures just revealed by the Ministry of Education show terrific losses of property, equipment and books by Chinese universities and colleges as a result of the Sino-Japanese hostilities.

It is stated here that a year before the hostilities broke out, in 1936, building and equipment possessed by China's 108 institutions of higher learning were valued at $86,000,000. Losses sustained through the war by eight universities alone, it is revealed, totalled nearly $18,000,000.

Losses sustained by Government private colleges and universities are estimated by one source to total over $65,000,000, or over three-quarters of their total value. Of 5,500,000 books in Chinese college libraries, it is further stated, 2,800,000 volumes or over half, have been lost to date.

In order to meet the heavy losses of laboratory apparatus and reference books, the Sino-British Boxer Indemnity Fund Administration last year gave $500,000 to two universities in Yunnan and Shensi for the purchase of the necessary equipment.—Reuter.

Fourth Marines Church

The Metropol Theatre was the scene yesterday morning of an outstanding church service and concert programme conducted by the U.S. Fourth Marines. Mr. G. Fidlon, violinist, was the guest artist in the concert, rendering three solos with piano accompaniment by Mr. G. Singer. Mr. Fidlon first rendered Gounod's lovely "Faust" as transcribed for violin by Sarasate, and continued with Schubert's immortal "Ave Maria." Both renditions were enthusiastically received by the appreciative audience, the applause lasting for several minutes, and Mr. Fidlon was recalled to play as an encore Drashek's enchanting aria "Gypsy Dance."

Renditions by the Fourth Marines' Regimental Band, in the concert, under the able direction of Bandmaster L. E. Giffin, included Von Weber's noted overture "Oberon" and the suite "Atlantis" (The Lost Continent) by Safranek, in four parts; "Nocturne and Morning Hymn of Praise, A Court Function, I Love Thee, and The Destruction of Atlantis." They concluded the concert with the Marines' Hymn and the American National Anthem.

At the church service which preceded the concert, Chaplain R. Marken, of the Fourth Marines, conducted the worship and delivered a vital message in his timely sermon on "Living in the Midst of Chaos." Band renditions in the service included the prelude "Thy Wisdom and Thy Might" by Clark, and Doane's "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour" for the offertory. Sergeant Sheehan, Privates First Class Feeney, Potter and Private Brown, all of the Marine Band, rendered special music.

Japanese Naval Planes Active

Operations Reported Over Wide Area; Coastal Cities Bombed

Japanese naval aircraft displayed vast activity in north, central, and south China as last week neared its end, a communique issued yesterday afternoon by the Japanese China Seas Fleet revealed.

Co-operating with Army forces engaged in operations aimed at clearing southern Shantung of Chinese troops, Navy aeroplanes on Thursday and Friday subjected Chinese positions near Chuhsien and Shihkiuso to intensive attacks, while Chinese troop concentrations at Kwanshwaichen and Taihsienchen were dispersed as a result of machine gun and bomb attacks, the announcement said.

Nanning Bombed

On Friday, Chinese bases at Kiulipe, Sanchwang, Chentuan, and Liuchiachwang, were bombed, a large concentration at Liuchiachwang being dispersed, the communique claimed. Nanning, important Kwangsi city, was again attacked on Friday, when two godowns in the central portion of the town were set on fire, while others were seriously damaged, according to the announcement. A convoy of 20 motor cars and trucks sighted on a highway north of the city was "badly damaged" in a machine gun attack. The Japanese machines were subjected to intensive anti-aircraft fire from positions south and east of the city, but escaped damage, the communique stated.

One steamer was sunk and two others seriously damaged in an attack on Kinpaimen, also in South China, on Friday when Wenchow, Taichow, and Haimen were also raided, Chinese field artillery positions and other military establishments at Huanghwatsun and Panchihweicheng were bombed. A powder magazine was blown up at the Hungyen forts of Chinhai on Saturday when naval aircraft carried out extensive operations in that area attacking Chinese bases and barracks in that area, the communique asserted.

Mawu and Tuelin, Chinese bases south of Nanchang, were also raided on Saturday. In south China, operations for the removal of mines on the West River were being continued, the communique declared.

MANY of the leading banks and insurance companies are planning "shadow" headquarters outside London, banks removing many vital documents to their country branches in case of emergency. Big shipping companies have plans for evacuation into safety zones already completed, only skeleton staffs being left in London, while arrangements for removing London's food markets from the danger zone are proceeding rapidly. Reports indicate that a considerable number of housewives are taking Sir Auckland Geddes's advice to lay in an extra stock of provisions, though there is no evidence of hoarding.

Emergency Hospital Accommodation

200,000 More Beds Available Under New Plan

London, June 11.

Speaking on emergency hospital accommodation this afternoon, the Minister of Health said that by sending suitable cases to their homes and by crowding up existing buildings, 200,000 hospital beds would be made available for the treatment of casualties within 24 hours of the outbreak of war. Another 50,000 beds would be provided in non-hospital buildings.

These would not be enough, however, and he had, therefore, given the beginning to a scheme for providing 40,000 more beds, mostly in hutted extensions to existing hospitals but partly in a small number of complete hospitals in huts.—Wireless through Reuter.

New York Market Advances

New York, June 9.

Prices on the New York Stock Exchange advanced between fractions of a point and two points today, carrying the Industrial average to the highest level since March 27. The best gains were made late in the morning when volume increased sharply. Later the market fluctuated within a narrow margin around the highs as dealings were curtailed.

Wall Street hears that May shipments of U. S. Steel were above April. Cluett Peabody will net for the first half of 1939 between $1.50-1.75 per share.

United Airlines operated at a profit in May. Westinghouse May bookings possibly were the largest in the company's history.

Analysts in some instances now are suggesting purchases on the declines which partially accounts for the market's ability to overcome realizing. Experts contend that it would not be unusual for the market to hesitate or even react before a decisive move to new high territory. However, they wonder whether the market is now ready to advance or whether the anticipated recovery will be delayed until later in June.

Favourable market factors today included :

1. Auto production this week is above expectations, gaining over 100 per cent.
2. Retail and wholesale trade are strong.
3. Strong indications of higher steel operations.

Among the unfavourable factors were these :

1. New foreign uncertainties.
2. Uneasiness over the motor labour situation.
3. The belief in many quarters that a reaction is overdue.—United Press.

New York Stocks

Saturday's Closing Quotations

New York, June 10.

Wall Street presented a very narrow appearance today, with prices showing a tendency to move either way. Moderate realizing stifled an early mild rallying movement, as many traders were absent from the floor in order to witness the reception given to their Britannic Majesties. Steels ruled narrow, while General Motors were neglected, owing to difficulties with the labour union. The volume of trading was small, amounting to only 250,000 shares.—Reuter.

Dow-Jones Summary

By Courtesy of Swan, Culbertson & Fritz

Stock prices presented an irregular appearance today in a session of dull trading. Steels lagged behind due to an outlook of declining steel operations next week. However, there was no particular pressure in evidence in any section.

New York Prices Move Irregularly

New York, June 10.

Prices on the New York Stock Exchange moved irregularly today in a dull session. Steels lagged on expectations of a decline in operations. Motors about held their own awaiting further Detroit labour developments, slipping just before the close.

Several new highs for the year were set. Rails were firm. Union Pacific gained nearly a point. Utilities, coppers and oils were mixed. Electrical equipments staged small gains. Foods and building materials were firm.

Wall Street nears that institutional sources are good buyers of stocks and bonds this week. Aviation second quarter earnings may be below earlier expectations.

Some chartists believe the industrial average will reach the 144-146 zone before real resistance is met.

Montgomery Ward's earnings for 1939 will be above last year's record.—

Favourable market factors today included :

1. Improved gasoline prices.
2. Building volume continues to gain.
3. Improved department store sales.

Among the unfavourable factors were these:

1. The market's technical position.
2. The labour situation in the automobile industry.
3. Uncertainties over the tripartite pact.—United Press.

U.S. Commodities

Saturday's Closing Quotations

New York, June 10.

Trading in the cotton market was fairly slow and narrow. Some liquidation and profit taking was in evidence, influenced by the uncertainty surrounding the conference now sitting at Washington over the Appropriations Bill. Most traders were absent from the floor, and closing quotations ruled from 1 to 3 points down, compared with the previous closing levels.

Wheat in Chicago presented a quiet and featureless appearance. Evidence points to the market as being still susceptible to weather considerations. Today, the weakness of cables restricted trading to narrow proportions. Final quotations were from unchanged to ⅛ cent down.

Exports from Japan Show Increase

Balance of Trade With Third Powers for First Half Year Adverse

Tokyo, June 10.

Trade returns for the first 10 days of June were as follows:— Imports, Y99,131,000, exports, Y99,547,000. Imports from January 1 this year to June 10 totalled Y1,405,000,000, an increase of 6.6 per cent., or Y8,700,000 over the same period last year.

Exports during the same period totalled Y1,384,000,000, showing an increase of 20 per cent., or Y247,000,000 over the same period last year.

The excess of imports over exports totalled Y20,000,000, a decrease of Y160,000,000 from the same period last year.

If the present rate of increase is maintained, observers predict that Japan's imports during the first half of the year, ending on June 30, will amount to Y1,581,000,000, an increase of 6.6 per cent., or Y98,000,000 over the same period last year.

Exports for that period are expected to toal Y1,556,000,000, showing an increase of 20 per cent., or Y269,000,000, with the excess of imports over exports totalling Y25,000,000, showing a decrease of Y170,000,000 from the same period last year.

Analyses of the trade returns up to April 30 this year show that Japan's trade with the "yen bloc" countries resulted in a favourable balance of Y177,000,000, but that trade with Third Powers resulted in an adverse balance of Y250,000,000.

It is predicted that the trade balance with Third Powers for the first half of this year will be adverse to Japan, and that it will amount to Y389,000,000, the same as that recorded for the corresponding period last year.—Reuters

London Money Market

London, June 10.

Owing to the usual half-yearly demand, clearing banks during the past week were more inclined to conserve their resources than buy bills. Consequently, the upward trend of discounts made further headway.

Furthermore, with offerings of Treasury bills to be increased next week from £45,000,000 to £50,000,000 operators anticipate that this week's average rate of 23/32 per cent. will be improved upon.—Reuter.

U.S. Exports to Germany Down Sharply

Washington, June 10.

United States exports to Germany decreased one-third in value during the first three months of 1939, reflecting a continuance of the downward trend of trade between the two countries, a Department of Commerce survey disclosed here.

Exports to the Third Reich, the figures showed, totaled $18,017,000 in the first three months of 1939, against $25,578,000 in the first quarter of 1938. Shipments to Germany during March amounted to $6,446,000, compared with $8,446,000 in the corresponding month of 1938.

Although no public announcement was made, Department economists privately attributed the decline to German reprisals against penalty duties aggregating 25 per cent. imposes by the Treasury on imports from Germany as a protest against policies pursued by Chancellor Adolf Hitler.

The Department asserted that imports from 30 of 45 countries increased in value during the first quarter of the year, while exports to only 11 countries registered an improvement.—United Press.

FROM DAY TO DAY

MARSHAL Pietro Badoglio, Chief of the Italian General Staff, who has been on an inspection tour through Libya during the past few days, returned to Rome on Saturday by air.

THE Bible Society Half Hour will be taken this evening by the Rev. T. L. Harnsberger of Fowning, Ku. The title of his talk will be "Now, therefore, give me this hill country."

THE only V.C. earl in the peerage, Lord Dunmore, has welcomed an heir in the second generation. A son has been born to his only son, Viscount Fincastle, who married the Hon. Pamela Hermon-Hodge, daughter of Lord and Lady Wyfold, a year ago.

A TRAINING plane of the Netherlands airlines K.L.M. crashed on the beach at Flushing on Saturday, killing the instructor and two students. The plane went out of control when landing and upon striking the ground immediately burst into flames. The numerous bathers on the beach were unable to rescue those trapped in the plane.

IT is a long step from working as a miner to controlling the King's House-hold. Yet that is the achievement of Lieut.-Col. Charles Kerr, M.P., who succeeds Capt. Charles Waterhouse, M.P., in the latter post. His mining experience was gained as a young man in Canada. Today he is a stockbroker. He is a cousin of the Marquis of Lothian.

A WOMAN, Mrs. Elsie Vera Parker, vacated the chair of the Union on April 8 for Mr. Chipperfield. She has had a successful year, and has spent a great deal of time travelling both at home and abroad in visiting other teachers' organizations. Mrs. Parker comes from West Ham, and has lately been promoted to a head teachership there.

INSTRUCTIONS were sent on Thursday by the Ministry of Finance to the various Chinese Maritime Customs authorities requesting that import duties on iron, steel and other metals and on machinery be reduced by two-thirds, says a Chungking Chinese message to the "Sin Wan Pac." The revised import duties will be valid for a period of six months, effective as from June 1, as a measure to encourage inland industrial development, the report states.

MR. Walter Elliot, Minister of Health, addressed the Industrial Welfare Society in London recently and disclosed the provisional maternal mortality figures for 1938, which constituted a record low figure for Great Britain. There had been a reduction from 3.13. per 1,000 births in 1937 to 2.97 in 1938. Although the Government had unfortunately to spend so much on Defence, Mr. Elliot continued, the sums allocated for Social Services would continue, as they were a good investment.

BUT for the presence of mind of a nurse Prince Vsevolod of Russia, who is to marry Lady Mary Lygon this month, would have been murdered by the Bolshevists. He was five years old at the time of the revolution. The mob killed his father, and raided his house in search of the prince and his sister. Their nurse wrapped them in an old coat and hid them under a pile of logs, where they escaped detection. Today the prince is 25. Although many Legitimists regard him as the leading candidate for the throne, he, himself, has other views.

A PENSION of £200 is to be provided for the six children of Mr. L. M. Griggs, R.A., who died last June. The youngest child is aged two and the eldest 16. The pension is in recognition of Mr. Grigg's services to art. Another pension for children recorded in the Civil List Pensions is £120 for Daryll and Rhea Mitchell aged 5 and 10, son and daughter of the late Mr. Leslie Mitchell. This grant is in recognition of Mr. Mitchell's services to literature.

MR. J. S. Rowlands, a surgeon of Rhyl, North Wales, attempted to perform an operation wearing a gas mask. He found that it was possible to do the coarser part of the operation, but when it came to the finer points Mr. Rowlands said he had to discard his gas mask in fairness to the patient. He suggests that the Royal College of Surgeons and the Association of Anaesthetists should call a committee to discuss the problem. The Ministry of Health are of the opinion that operating theatres themselves should be gas-proofed.

HAY Castle in the Wye Valley erected in 1090, was extensively damaged by fire recently. The oldest portion of the castle comprising 6 bedrooms, 6 bathrooms, a lounge hall, two staircases, was affected and valuable furniture and the whole of the tiled roof of the castle were destroyed. The castle was built by Bernard de Newmarch, one of William the Conqueror's companions. The castle is owned by Lord Clanusk. The only occupant at the time of the fire was Mrs. James, the caretaker, who was awakened by 'phone.

A CLAIM for £100,000 has been sent to the British War Office by John T. Byrne, a Boston, U.S.A. postman and his three sisters. They say that £100,000 was prize money awarded their grandfather, the late Lt. Thomas Byrne, of the Royal Artillery, for services in the vicinity of Delhi where the British are said to have carried out profitable mining for gold and other ores. The claimants say the War Office has held the money since 1856 and that the claim was not pressed sooner because the discharge papers could not be found.

THE resignation of General Sir Reginald Hildyard, Governor of the Bermudas, because the Legislature will not allow him to use a motor-car, brings a long dispute to a head. Soon after his appointment in 1936 he urged on the local authorities that whenever he wanted to visit the local barracks he had to drive 20 miles in his carriage, or travel in a train often crowded with natives. And the cost of living is so high in the Bermudas that the upkeep of a horse and carriage runs away with £200 a year. The reply was that the streets were sufficiently crowded with horse traffic and cycles as it was, and that the railway ran through some of the main streets. The Colonial Office declined to interfere in the dispute on the ground that no matter of policy was involved.

Gruesome Discovery In England

Hacked Remains of Girl's Body Found in Newspaper

London, June 11.

The gruesome discovery was made near Scholes today of several sections of a young woman's body wrapped in newspaper sheets. The head was in one sheet of paper, the left arm in another, and the left leg in a third.

The authorities are attempting to identify the corpse, which appears to be that of a woman aged about 22. The right arm is still missing. The police consider that the person who cut up the body had no knowledge whatsoever of anatomy. The left arm was literally torn from the trunk. The police believe that an axe was used by the murderer. It was noticed that none of the gruesome packages were stained by blood. The victim had blond hair, cut along masculine lines.—Havas.

Bedding Alight in Central District

Machines from Central station rushed down Foochow Road shortly after 7 p.m. yesterday and newspaper offices were flooded with calls from residents of the Central district who wanted to know where the conflagration had occurred only to be informed that the firemen had been summoned to the corner of Szechuen and Nanking Roads where some bedding belonging to a Chinese refugee who had just arrived from Pootung, had gone up in flames.

Claim to Sultan's Estate Made

Heirs Seek Part of Lands Of Abdul Hamid

London, June 11.

The problem of the succession to the properties of the late Sultan of Turkey Abdul Hamid is being debated upon at persent by the Judiciary Committee of the Privy Council.

The question was submitted to the Council recently by the heir Prince Mohamed Selim, eldest son of Abdul Hamid, who died in 1937.

Nine of the former Sultan's widows and their children have had recourse to the law against the Palestine Government where Abdul Hamid owned land estimated at £300,000,000 when he was overthrown by young Turks in 1908. About one third of the total amount of territory in Palestine was transferred to the Turkish Government and then returned to Palestine in accordance with the Lausanne treaty.

The heirs of the Sultan are demanding but a small part of the territory, situated near Gag, but hope, in the event of their success, to increase their demands later.

The case was opened eight years ago by Mohamed Selim, who alleged that the transfer of his lands to the Turkish Government constituted sheer confiscation. Selim died during the trial which was held in various stages: 1. The Jaffa tribunal granted some satisfaction to the heirs. 2. The Court of Appeals reversed the decision, confirming the rights of the Palestine Government to the territory. 3. A new trial was held before a court of three judges, which upheld the decision of the Court of Appeals. The heirs are fighting against this decision, basing their action upon the laws of Dominions and Colonies and territories under British Mandate.—Havas.

Guerillas Routed Near Nanking

Japanese Claim Heavy Losses Inflicted on Chinese

Nanking, June 11.

During mopping-up operations against guerillas and bandit-troops in the Nanking area in May Japanese garrison forces killed 276 Chinese and took 136 prisoners, according to an announcement by Japanese military authorities. Japanese casualties were 30 killed.

Booty seized by the Japanese included 416 rifles, three heavy machine guns, 10 light machine guns, two trench mortars, 25 pistols and large amounts of other arms and ammunition.

A small Japanese unit routed a large number of Chinese armed with Czech machine guns in a clash lasting nine hours near Paoshihchen, 16 kilometres east of Kuyung, which is southeast of Nanking. The Chinese lost 50 killed, while Japanese casualties were two wounded. Large quantities of arms and ammunition were abandoned by the Chinese.—Domei.

Opium Seized in Speedy Raid

S. M. P. on Track of Large Narcotic Ring; Many Nabbed

On information received, detectives from Chengtu Road police station raided a Chinese house in Lane 357 Weihaiwei Road shortly after 8 p.m. last night, arrested 13 men and six women and seized about 20 ounces of opium as well as pipes, lamps, opium ashes other smoking paraphernalia and some chips used in gambling.

This raid was believed last night to be the first step in the undoing of a large gang engaged in trafficking the drug and at the time of going to press, a series of additional raids were understood to be in progress. The gang was believed to consist of Cantonese as all the persons arrested in the house were natives of the southern province.

Among the evidence seized, was a bank account book and some correspondence which however had not yet been examined at a late hour last night, as detectives were busy questioning the arrested persons, some of whom were going to be released later having merely been on the premises at the time of the raid without actually having any connection in the sale or use of the drug.

Hundreds of occupants of the lane in which the raid was carried out stood near the premises and loudly applauded the detectives as they came out of the building, carrying the seized objects on trays.

The opium was found at various places in the building and was well-concealed, most of it having been stored in old cigarette tins in the kitchen, in double-bottom chairs and in various other containers which the proprietors of the place thought most likely to escape the eyes of the sleuths.

Working energetically however, the house was searched from top to bottom in less than one hour and, whilst the actual results achieved in the first raid, were not very encouraging, detectives are of the opinion that they will soon have unearthed one of the largest opium-distributing gangs at present operating in Shanghai.

Those of the suspects whom the detectives believe to be concerned in the traffic will face the First Special District Court this morning.

German Refugees Seek To Enter Britain

Stranded Emigres Send Cable To Prime Minister

London, June 11.

One hundred and seven German refugees aboard the Hamburg-Amerika liner St. Louis, who were refused permission to land at Cuba, have cabled to Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the British Prime Minister, begging asylum in Great Britain, or at least permission to land at Southampton, according to a message received here from the ship.

They declared that their position was desperate, and that they were not allowed to return to Hamburg. —Reuter.

New British Policy In Palestine

Steps to Enforce Parts of Plan Which are Possible; Land Transfer Scheme

Jerusalem, June 11.

It is officially announced that steps are now being taken to enforce those parts of the new British policy in Palestine in regard to which immediate action is possible.

A new Order-in-Council has been issued authorising the High Commissioner, among other things, to prohibit and regulate the transfer of land between Arabs and Jews. Detailed regulations for such transfers, which will be made retrospective to May 17, will be announced shortly.

The new British Palestine policy is outlined in the British Government's White Paper issued last month.

Among other things it envisages the establishment of an independent Palestine State within 10 years, and the limitation of Jewish immigration to 75,000 over a period of five years, with cessation of immigration after that period.

The independent state will be one in which Arabs and Jews will share the task of Government in such a way as to ensure that the essential interests of both communities are safeguarded.

The establishment of this state will be preceded by a transitional period throughout which the British Government retains responsibility.

During the transitional period, the people of Palestine will be given an increasing part in the government of the country, and the process will be carried on whether the Arabs or Jews avail themselves of the opportunity.

At the end of five years from the restoration of peace, an appropriate body representing both the Palestinians and the British Government will be established, to review the working of the constitutional arrangements during the transition period and to make recommendations regarding the constitution of an independent Palestine.—Reuter.

Japanese Mobilizing Materials

Secrecy Clothes Decision Of Cabinet

Tokyo, June 11.

A plan for the national mobilization of materials in the current year has been decided on by the Japanese Cabinet, but details of the programme are at present kept a close secret.

It is believed, however, that strenuous efforts will be made to extend the production of materials needed to manufacture munitions and to develop Japan's export trade. A feature of the new scheme is an increase in the control of the consumption of materials by the general public.

The mantle of secrecy is causing considerable criticism, for while the Japanese people are ready to undergo any sacrifice to promote the proper disposal of the situation caused by the prolonged hostilities in China, it is felt that the authorities should take the people into their confidence regarding the details of the new plan and launch the measures for the execution of the policy as early as possible.

The "China Incident" has put a great strain on the people, who are subjected to much inconvenience, remarks the Miyako Shimbun. Fortunately, it says, they are not suffering from a shortage of foodstuffs, in which Japan is self-sufficient.

The new mobilization programme, under which control of a long list of materials will be intensified, the newspaper adds, will not be a threat against the people if every care is used in carrying it into effect. Hitherto the distribution of materials has not been smooth, the result being friction in various quarters.—Reuter.

Hope For Halliburton Abandoned

Cruiser Finds No Trace of Missing Traveller

San Pedro, June 11.

All hope of rescuing Mr. Richard Halliburton, noted American explorer and author, vanished yesterday when the U. S. S. Astoria returned here from the Orient and reported that no trace of Mr. Halliburton's Chinese junk had been sighted by four scouting planes which searched 150,000 square miles in mid-Pacific while en route here from Manila.

Mr. Halliburton and his party disappeared in mid-Pacific during a heavy storm while attempting to sail a Chinese junk from Hongkong to San Francisco.

The Astoria was ordered to search for the missing explorer while returning here from Japan via Shanghai and Manila. The Astoria recently returned to Japan the ashes of the late Japanese Ambassador to Washington, Mr. Hiroshi Saito.—United Press.

Congestion at Tokyo Railway Station

Prizes Offered For Ideas To Relieve Conditions

Tokyo, June 11.

Tokyo Central Station, which was considered too large when opened in 1914, is now suffering badly from congestion. About 30,000 passengers use it hourly in the rush hours, while over 350,000 are handled daily on an average.

Plans for enlargement are held up owing to lack of necessary materials, due to the hostilities in China. The Railway Ministry is now offering prizes to officials and employees who send in good suggestions to relieve the situation.—Reuter.

Training Bureau for Chinese Judges

Peiping, June 11.

A judges training bureau has been inaugurated here by the Ministry of Justice with Mr. Chu Sheng, Minister of Justice, as director. The bureau will train the 49 judges who recently passed the judges examination held under the auspices of the Ministry of Justice.—Reuter.

In the Russian Colony

By "Stroy"

The article, written by Lord Forbes, which appeared in the "Sunday Express" and dealt in parts with Russian emigrants, surprised the local Russian community in that it simply was not based on facts. His esteemed lordship writes: "The majority of these (in France) White Russian refugees engaged in every kind of illicit action. The jails were filled with members of the race. They abused France left and right." Never before has anybody, anywhere written or said any such thing about the Russian refugees. If they were as Lord Forbes describes them or wants to see them, in France, then in Shanghai they would have been of similar timbre. And yet it is worthy of note that the successive Commissioners of Police of the International Settlement and the French Concession have, not once but many times, stated for the benefit of the local press and public that they were gratifyingly surprised at the insignificant percentage of lawbreakers to be found among the huge, local Russian colony.

Murders and major criminal activities among the Russian community for the whole of the 20 years of their existence have been practically non-existent. But, of course, if Lord Forbes is correct in his statements, we must suppose that, after the Revolution, all the good element of Russian refugees came to Shanghai whereas all the bad element went to England and France. And yet it is and always has been common knowledge that the majority of Russian emigrants into Europe, excluding the common people, former soldiers and even peasants, consisted of intellectual members of the higher-grade professions,—doctors, lawyers, professors, engineers, artists and painters, bishops and priests, musicians and specialists of the widest assortment of knowledge and art. It was always known to all that everywhere, in Serbia, Bulgaria and in France, the Russians turned to the land whenever they could. In the Citroen Motor Car Works in Paris there are 20,000 Russian workers and employees. Throughout the rest of Paris, in the capacities of taxi-drivers, artisans and, last but not least waiters in hotels and restaurants there are thousands more. The latter fact is so well-known to the world that novels have been written, plays staged and films produced centring around such characters. Not old enough to be yet forgotten is the film, "Tovarich", where the hero and heroine, so to say members of the royal family, are employed as butler and maid, respectively.

Take to Manual Labour

Whenever possible, in towns like Berlin, Sydney or San Francisco, Russians take to hard manual labour. Among these people there are often to be found former officers, captains, generals, university graduates, engineers, teachers and even priests. Many books have been written in the English language, not by Russians but by unbiased observers, dealing with the Russian refugees.

Among the Russians, as among any other nationality, there is a dubious element which, considering the circumstances and the state in which they had to flee from Russia in their millions, is much less than could have been expected. We are on purpose omitting the notable Russians, like Igor Sikorsky, Sergei Lefar or Ivan Bunin, who have gained world-wide fame and position since their evacuation from Russia. We are here dealing with the Russian masses in connection with whom we persist in saying that Lord Forbes had absolutely no reason to call the Russian emigrants in France and England, parasites. Most of them have always worked hard and honestly and have earned the recognition and respect of the people in whose country they have settled down. In England, and especially in London, there has always been such an infinitesmal percentage of Russians that it is quite probable that Lord Forbes never had the occasion of seeing how they lived and worked away from their homes, in a land where they had to seek refuge as a result of the Great War, a war in which they were fellow comrades of the French and British.

Start a New Life

In Germany, according to the local Russian press, the people pay more attention to the Russian emigrants and take an interest not only in those living within the limits of the Reich but also in others dwelling in other parts of the world. Recently received from Hamburg is a magazine in which is printed a letter from a Shanghai resident who writes of the local Russian community: "An especially outstanding position in the cultural life of Shanghai is held by local Russians, who, when they left the "Soviet Paradise" and came to Shanghai, found themselves without any belongings or means of self-support. They soon realized that to them Shanghai was not merely a temporary water-hole but a permanent oasis where they had to drop their knapsacks and start building a new life.

They were faced with hardships and difficulties but none of these adversities could change the Russian soul and its leanings towards art. They struggled resolutely against all set-backs and, though some of them fell by the wayside, the majority battled through, proud of their nationality and widely cultivating the artistic resources of their newly found home, Shanghai. At the beginning, the Russians in Shanghai had no aid or support from outside. They had to succeed in their ventures without any help and by their own means. Their main achievements for the cultural life of Shanghai are the Russian Theatre, the Russian Opera and the Russian Ballet. They created this world of art for Shanghai and now it is enjoyed and appreciated by many other nationals. Russian musicians and artists, working for insignificant remunerations, play brilliantly, and wi... great gusto give the Shanghai public something that may really be called art. An especially high achievement is the Russian church choir. Anyone who has heard but once the singing in a Russian church cannot easily forget the stirring impression left in his soul.

Registration

In connection with the proclamation of the Shanghai Municipality concerning the registration of all Russian Emigrants' organizations and unions before June 15, the president of the Russian Emigrants' Committee Mr. Charles Metzler, states that the purpose of this registration is to provide the Russian Emigrants' Committee with all possible information an organizations and members thereof. The Committee, being the one and only locally recognized representative body of the Russian community, will be able to protect in time of need the interests of these organizations and their members. Those organizations, however, which have not been registered, will be struck off the lists of the Emigrants' Committee and they and their members will neither be helped nor even recognized. The information required by the committee is: the address of the organization; date of foundation; information on the president, his residential and business addresses; the names of members of the board of directors; a full list of the members with their residential and business addresses. Besides that, informaiton must be given whenever any member happens to be also a member of another club or association.

The previous week brought with it the sudden death of Lieutenant N. R. Lubitsch-Plasovsky, formerly of the Royal Navy, who only recently arrived from Tsingtao where he has his permanent residence and some additional property. Lieutenant Lubitsch-Plasovsky is a graduate of the Artillery High School and was a member of the Royal Marines in Vladivostok from where, with the rest of the Russian refugees, he evacuated into China. His wife, Baroness Ungern, survives him.

Art Meeting

On Sunday, June 11, the Annual Russian Art Meeting was held in the hall of the Sokol Sporting Club. Speeches were delivered by Dr. A. P. Sysoevsky, Prof. S. S. Aksakov, and Mr. V. M. Anastasieff. Later a concert was given in which the Duchess of Leuchenberg, Mrs. L. V. Mikitchuk and Mr. I. Shevzoff participated. Mr. I. A. Kolchin led the choir. The meeting was held to acquaint the Russian youth with the achievements of Russian art. From July 1, the Sokol Sporting Club is organizing special instructions in games and sports for those schoolboys and schoolgirls who will not be able to leave Shanghai this summer. The exercises and games will be under the direction of Mr. C. Grigorieff and Mr. Tuchkoff.

Dead Pilot

In one of the recent aerial combats Kweilin, the capital of Kwangsi, a Chinese pilot named Fu Pa Lu was killed. Better known to the Russian colonies of Shanghai and Harbin as Paul Plantonoff, he took this latter name from his Russian mother who had married his father, a Chinese. He spoke Russian and Chinese with equal ease and had just as many Chinese friends as he had Russians. Fu Pa Lu-Plantonoff was a remarkable athlete and was Champion of China and Manchuria for the Pole Vault. In 1936 he represented China at the International Olympics held in Berlin. When the war broke out he was a student in one of the Chinese Universities, but he dropped his studies and entered an Aviation School from which he soon emerged a war-pilot, and took part in many aerial battles.

Graduates of the Harbin Law College, which was founded in 1920 by Russian scholars emigrating from Russia after the Civil War, from time to time hold a meeting which is attended by former students and professors who happen to be in Shanghai. At the last meeting the proposal of Mr. M. E. Ghilcher was taken up. He proposed the organizing of regular meetings to start from this Autumn, at which historical papers would be read. Mr. Ghilcher then went on to tell of the success of Russian scholars in Europe.

American Aeroplane Plan Important to European Democracies

New Construction Not Deemed Necessary for Defence, Says Writer; U.S. Invasion Ridiculed

Washington, June 10.

The United States military aircraft expansion programme is not necessary to national defence but is important in shaping policies of European Democracies, the Foreign Policy Association reports.

In a report prepared by Mr. David H. Popper of its research staff, the Association declared that any attempted invasion of the Western Hemisphere by a European or Asiatic nation would be "foolhardy" because this country is "unquestionably far better prepared for conflict than ever before in its peacetime history."

Mr. Popper urged that the American people exercise their rights to limit "the almost endlessly increasing demands" of the Army and Navy.

"It should be openly admitted that the armed forces represent an essential element in the pursuit of power politics," the report said. "The diplomatic implications of the development of Guam, for example, far outweigh the direct military consequences.

"Similarly, the expansion of the American aircraft industry, which may conceivably constitute a vital source of supply for European Democracies, has a direct effect on the policies of those states. Certainly the new aeroplane construction is not necessary for defensive purposes.

The report pointed out that the effective radius of loaded bombers under war conditions seldom exceeds 500 or 600 miles. Hence, it said, the only means by which the United States could be menaced by an air attack would be through the establishment of a plane base in this hemisphere by a hostile power.

"In view of the fact that the United States appears to need only a moderate-sized force of the most modern types," the report said, "it has been suggested that the air corps and the aviation industry have entered into this programme for rapid expansion in order to 'take as much as they can get now' while there is little opposition to appropriations."

Mr. Popper charged that the U.S. military force is organized to conduct long-range overseas warfare. "The very existence of forces of the magnitude now planned," he said, "makes possible their use in overseas conflicts."—United Press.

Stone Age Men in New Guinea

Expedition Finds Men Who Never Before Saw Any White People

Bandoeng, Java, June 11.

The discovery of a huge tribe of stone age men is reported here by a Netherlands-American expedition that has just returned from a full year of exploration in the depths of Dutch New Guinea.

Characterized as one of the most interesting ethnological finds of recent years, this tribe is said to number about 60,000 individuals, and none of its members is stated to have ever laid eyes on a white man before the arrival of the exploring party.

The explorers say that the tribesmen were found using only stone implements and spoke an unknown language. They wore almost no clothing at all, and looked upon the eating of their enemies as a justifiable reward for victory in warfare carried on with neighbouring Papuans. On the other hand, they were not unfriendly toward the explorers and willingly sold sweet potatoes and pigs in return for shells.

Aeroplane Used

Comprising eight Americans, six Netherlanders and one Canadian, the expedition left Java a year ago for New Guinea to carry out scientific research on behalf of the Natural History Museum in New York City. The leader of the party is Mr. Richard Archibold. The government of the Netherlands Indies supplied a military escort under command of Captain C. G. J. Teerink.

The party proceeded to New Hollandia, on the north coast of New Guinea, and then went inland to the Wilhelmina Mountain and Idenburg River districts, more than 200 miles from the sea. A large cabin 'plane capable of carrying twenty passengers besides the crew was used for preliminary surveys.

Although incidental to the original purpose of the expedition, the discovery of the strange tribe proved to be one of the most exciting experiences in the year of eventful exploration. The stone age men at first disappeared into the forest when the party approached, but after a short time they became more accustomed to their twentieth century visitors and returned to the villages.

Preferred Own Stone Axes

They were found living in round houses and engaged in a very primitive form of agriculture to produce enough sweet potatoes to satisfy their needs. Anxious to obtain a number of the stone implements, the scientists offered to give steel knives and hatchets in return. This did not interest the tribesmen, however, and they soon made it clear that they preferred to use their stone axes.

For the first few weeks conversation was carried on mainly by means of an improvised sign language, but after some time the explorers were able to learn many words of the strange new tongue. The tribe has not been named as yet, although people of the New Guinea high country are often referred to as the Pesechem.

The expedition was organized purely for biological research and succeeded in making a remarkable collection of birds and mammals previously unknown to science. The characteristics displayed by these specimens are said clearly to indicate the close relationship between New Guinea and the continent of Australia.

The American members of the expedition will return to the United States probably by air by way of Europe.—Reuter.

Central China Rice For North China

100,000 Piculs To Be Sent To Peiping

Peiping, June 11.

As the result of negotiations between representatives of the Provisional and Reformed Governments, the latter has promised to supply North China with 100,000 piculs of rice produced in Central China, according to Chinese reports.

The Provisional Government originally asked for a consignment of 500,000 piculs, but the Reformed Government could only promise one fifth of the total amount as there are not very big rice stocks in Central China. The transportation of the 100,000 piculs of rice will begin shortly.

Local grain dealers have approached the Manchoukuo trade commissioner's office in Peiping for the purchase of another consignment of foodstuffs from Manchoukuo. The first consignment of 14,000 tons of food supplies which arrived here not long ago has been sold out.—Reuter.

Sunday Newspapers Amalgamate

"Sunday Chronicle" Obsorbs The "Referee"

London, June 10.

Adding to his newspaper empire, Lord Kemsley announced today that he bought over the popular "Sunday Referee."

The paper is to cease its independent existence. It will be amalgamated with the "Sunday Chronicle," which will take the name of "Sunday Chronicle and Referee."

Mr. James Gomer Berry, created Lord Kemsley in 1936, is the owner of the "Daily Telegraph," now being published by him under the name of the "Telegraph-Morning Post."—Havas.

Political Sentences Given In Vienna

Vienna, June 10.

The Political Tribunal here meted out today its sentence against seven persons—two of them women—charged with affiliation to a "Socialist Revolutionary" organization. The accused were furthermore charged with distributing funds from the "Socialist Workers' Union."

The Tribunal sentenced five of the culprits to three years in jail and two of them to one year. The names of the sentenced persons are not known, as only their initials were published in the local press.—Havas.
